JAILED AFTER PERILING WIFE, 2 POLICEMEN

Radio Advertising Salesman Arrested After Police Batter Down Door.

BULLET MISSES

Officers Tell of Threat To Shoot Them, Break in After Hearing Shot.

After firing a bullet through a bathroom door behind which his estranged wife was hiding, and after threatening two policemen with the same gun, Robert M. Allen surrendered to police who battered down the door of his quarters, No. 5 Zediker apartments, Bartley and Woodward avenue, at 1:30 a. m. today.

Allen, an advertising salesman for radio station WMAN, will be arraigned in municipal court tomorrow morning on the charge of "pointing and discharging firearms." The charge was drawn by Acting County Prosecutor John C. O'Donnell and the affidavit signed by Police Captain Paul Whipp.

Whipp and Patrolman Richard Hecht rushed to the building shortly after 1 a. m. after neighboring tenants had telephoned to police headquarters that a woman was being beaten in Apartment 5.

"I'll shoot the first man who comes in that door," the officers said Allen shouted when Capt. Whipp knocked on the door.

"I've got two guns," Allen then warned them, the police reported.

"Put that gun away and open the door," a woman's voice was heard, warning the arresting officers their quarry was armed. Mrs. Allen later told them she fainted but on recovery had darted into the bathroom, locking the door.

"Unlock that door and come out and make up or I'll use this gun on you," the male voice said, adding, "open that door or I'll shoot through it," according to the police report.

Immediately upon hearing a shot fired, Whipp and Hecht crashed against the apartment door, breaking it down. As Whipp leveled his revolver on the man Hecht darted to his side, grabbing his gun arm and twisting the weapon loose.

Will Ask Ohioans To Give Up Bite Of Meat Per Day

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohioans will be asked in a house-to-house campaign to give up "just about one bite of meat a day" to participate in the nation's "share the meat" drive, State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone announced today.

Stone said preparations virtually had been completed for a statewide canvass between Nov. 30 and Dec. 5 to explain how consumers could bring voluntary limitation of civilian meat consumption to an average of 2½ pounds weekly, so that supplies will be adequate for the nation's fighting men and lease-lend requirements.

The Ohio campaign will be conducted by civilian block and neighborhood leaders who will receive special training at meetings with state and county home nutritionists in the next few days, Stone said.

Stone explained that he based his "bite a day" estimate on the average per capita consumption of 143 pounds of meat annually for the past decade.

U. S. Officials Order Ban On Enlistment of Essential Men.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The government today prohibited voluntary enlistment in the armed forces by any essential worker in the aircraft and shipbuilding industries.

The action was seen as a compromise answer to demands among federal manpower agencies that all voluntary enlistments be stopped.

Acting after approval had been obtained from the war and navy departments, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, instructed local draft boards by telegram to refuse releases for enlistment to essential aircraft or shipbuilding workers.

He defined essential workers as "any registrant who is, or should be, classified in Class II-B or III-B and who is employed in the aircraft or shipbuilding industries." The ruling also applies to registrants who resigned from essential jobs in those industries within 60 days before seeking to enlist.

Hershey emphasized that "this is not a blanket deferment of workers in these industries, who will continue to be called for military service as they are needed and as they can be replaced in essential jobs."

Some observers interpreted the order as indicating that President Roosevelt has decided to reject a plea by War Manpower Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt that all voluntary enlistments be stopped in order to make possible "orderly withdrawal" for military duty of men from essential industries. McNutt is supported by Hershey and other manpower officials.

Mr. Roosevelt is known to have opposed the idea because of his close association with and affection for traditions of the Navy, which always has been able to meet its manpower needs on a voluntary basis.

Officials suggested that the new ruling might be extended to other industries as labor shortages become more acute. Essential agriculture, also become more acute. Essential agriculture under the recent "teen age amend-

NEW BAILIFF

Zellner Resigns, Knapp Named To Muny Court Post.

After occupying the office of municipal court bailiff several hours yesterday, Fred Zellner resigned the post and the position was filled today by Basil W. Knapp, insurance and real estate agent. He lives at 185 Bartley avenue.

Zellner, having the first choice endorsement at Friday night's meeting of the Richland county Republican executive committee, on Saturday announced his acceptance of appointment by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. The post was made vacant 10 days ago by the death of August Schultz who served as bailiff since 1936.

Knapp is a Republican and has been active in party circles for a number of years. He assumed his duties this morning. The post of bailiff pays $165 a month.

THANKSGIVING TABLES TO SAG

They'll Be Full of Costliest Food Since 1919 as Other Lands Feel War's Pinch.

By SANFORD MARKEY

NEW YORK — The nation's first Thanksgiving in World War II will find Americans sitting down to holiday tables with food more plentiful than anywhere else in the world.

Although rationing has become a daily password, restrictions on sugar, coffee and meat have not resulted in any food shortages for Thanksgiving.

In sharp contrast, however, is the food situation in Europe where a starving populace is being crushed under the militaristic heel of Adolf Hitler.

America's Thanksgiving will be the most expensive since 1919, with food prices expected to be 20 per cent greater than in 1941, and about 60 per cent over those of 1940.

More cranberries, potatoes, pumpkins and other staples will be on the market. Foods which the department of agriculture expects to be scarce or off the market before long include prime cuts of beef and pork, ham, bacon, lard, vegetable fats, canned fruits and vegetables.

Foods which will be plentiful this winter include lamb, veal, chicken, turkey, dry beans, flour, potatoes, dried fruits and vege-

Tells Former County Auditor He Must Stay In Prison.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The state pardon and parole commission today denied a parole to Ralph Richardson, former Tuscarawas county auditor sentenced for embezzlement, and continued his case two years to November, 1944.

Richardson was sentenced to prison in June 1938, for an indefinite term—one to 10 years in embezzlement cases — when he pleaded guilty before Common Pleas Judge E. E. Lindsay to an indictment charging him with embezzling $9,867 in county funds.

Men Face Chair For Treason, Women Get Prison Terms.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The high crime of treason today brought a sentence of death in the electric chair to three German-born men and long prison terms and fines for their wives.

The six convicted traitors, all naturalized citizens of German birth, were sentenced by Federal Judge William J. Campbell in U. S. district court. They were convicted Nov. 14 of aiding, harboring and protecting Herbert Hans Haupt, since executed as a German saboteur.

Condemned to follow him to the electric chair on Jan. 22, 1943, were the spy's father, Hans Max Haupt; his uncle, Walter Froehling, and his friend, Otto Richard Wergin.

Each of the women was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment and to a fine of $10,000. They were Erna Haupt, Lucille Froehling and Kate Martha Wergin.

Seeks 100 Per Cent Record On Bond Payroll Deductions

Mansfield industrial plants and business firms were called upon today to help make Richland county the first in the state to achieve 100 per cent participation in the 10 per cent payroll deduction plan for war savings bonds by Dec. 7, anniversary of the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

Speaking yesterday before two separate rallies attended by representatives of 30 local business and industrial organizations, Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the Richland county war bond committee, said: "We have already made substantial progress and I honestly believe that one more big push by the employes of every firm in the county will put us over the top."

Representatives of 15 industrial organizations attended the first meeting held at noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Another 15 companies were represented at the second rally last night in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. Other speakers at the meetings were James Eberle, president of the Junior Association of Commerce; John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Roger Bolin and Paul Endriss.

Eliot pointed out that the Treasury department has called for one more final drive this year to get every firm up to its quota of 10 per cent payroll deductions for war bonds. He reminded his audience that "Richland county has a fine tradition

GERMANS LOSE 50,000, CLAIM RED ADVICES

Russians Close in Steadily on Whole Salient in Stalingrad Area.

ADVANCE 125 MILES

Report Himmler Calls For Destruction of Half of Polish Jews This Year.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The jaws of a double Russian offensive which battlefront reports said had bit deeply into the cold steppes west of the Don bend and cost the Germans 50,000 dead and captured were closing steadily today upon the Nazis' whole Stalingrad salient.

Despite desperate German resistance in an effort to keep open a corridor of reinforcement or escape to the long-besieged Volga bastion, the Russians reported new gains to maintain their average of six to 12 miles a day northwest of Stalingrad and nine to 12 miles a day southwest of the city.

The deepest reported penetration was at Chernyshevskaya on the Chir river, 125 miles west of Stalingrad and 75 miles west of Kalach, the railroad town on the Don bend which the Russians seized over the week-end.

Chernyshevskaya is some 40 miles southwest of Kletskaya, the Don river citadel 100 miles northwest of Stalingrad which the Nazis overran in their fall drive toward the Volga. Now German holding positions at Kletskaya are menaced from two sides, since the Russians also are on the offensive in the Serafimovich, 30 miles farther up the Don.

Southwest of Stalingrad the Russians were pushing along the rail line which leads from Stalingrad across the bleak Malmyck steppes into the northern Caucasus. They reported driving on after taking Aksai in a 10-mile advance from Abganerova, 40 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

(The German high command apparently regarded the turn of the tide on the eastern European front as too great to conceal from its people, and a communique acknowledged that the German de-

Knox Doubts Japs Get Help to Guadalcanal

Enemy Forces West of Henderson Field Believed Cut Off From Aid As Yanks Widen Control Area.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Navy Knox said today it was "very unlikely" that the Japanese were getting reinforcements to their troops opposing American forces on Guadalcanal in the Solomon islands.

"It is possible but not probable," Knox told a press conference. "Because rigid United States patrols are working day and night."

The Japanese have not been reported landing more troops on the embattled island since their great and unsuccessful drive almost two weeks ago to land huge forces and overwhelm the American defenders of the airfield there.

Prior to the big push, the Japanese had the method of feeding in an average of about 900 men every second night, landing them from cruiser-destroyer groups.

It was this practice that Knox was asked about at his press conference and his answer clearly indicated a belief that at least for the time being the Japanese troops on the island,

'Jan Valtin' Arrested For Deportation to Germany.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Attorney General Biddle announced today that Richard Julius Herman Krebs, who wrote a widely-sold book on his experiences as an agent of the Gestapo and the OGPU under the name of Jan Valtin had been arrested near Bethel, Conn., on a warrant ordering his deportation to Germany.

The next step presumably will be to interne Krebs as an enemy alien, since he cannot be returned to German during the war.

Krebs is a native of Darmstadt, Germany, and is 37. His book was entitled "Out of the Night." He was charged with illegal entry into the United States after once having been arrested and deported and after committing a crime (perjury) involving moral turpitude.

1,500 REGISTER FOR EXTRA GAS

First Day Registrations Bring Few Challenges, Ration Officials Say.

With the name group D-E-F-G registering this afternoon and evening for extra gasoline rationing, members of the county board's gasoline panel today reported that yesterday's A-B-C registration of 1,500 or more applicants brought comparatively few challenges of requests for gas allotments over the A book basic mileage ration.

Chairman W. J. Spreng and T. R. Sammons and E. S. Weller today were reviewing applications which registrars yesterday considered did not merit immediate issuance of B or C supplemental rationing books. The more complex applications will be submitted to a board of review of 30 members divided into panels to serve during and following the registration period.

"Many, it seems, want C books right away," Spreng said today. "However, in a number of cases the request is satisfactorily met by the issuance of a B book. No real confusion or apparent dis-

Dakar Goes Over To Darlan; Allies Expected To Get Use of Key Port.

BULLETIN

MADRID—(U.P.)—African reports today said that Admiral Jean Francois Darlan has ordered all French warships and merchant vessels to remain at Dakar for the present. The reports said Darlan is dispatching a special staff to Dakar to organize the port for full cooperation with the Allies.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — A violently erupting struggle for air supremecy was fought over Tunisia and along the Axis Mediterranean shuttle route today while British and American forces on the ground were getting set for the all-out assault upon Tunis—and Bizerte, once the enemy is driven from the North African skies.

There was every sign that the aerial conflict would be a hard one, for great fleets of German planes were gathering in the Mediterranean theater and Axis reinforcements still were reaching Tunisia through the Allied gantlet.

"The fight is going to be tough and longer than might be expected," said a spokesman at Allied headquarters in North Africa.

Bearing him out were reports from both sides telling of the mounting fury of the struggle.

The British Middle East command announced at Cairo that at least three more large been troop transports, were sent been troop transoprts, were sent plunging into the sea yesterday off the Tunisian coast.

Broadcasting what it called an Allied communique, the Morocco radio said that Allied air activity had grown "very intense" and that another violent bombing raid had been made on Tripoli, in Libya.

The Algiers radio said nine Axis planes were destroyed in an Allied

Chile Will Break With Axis 'If It's Necessary.'

SANTIAGO—(INS)—Chile today stood ready "to break off relations with the Axis powers if it becomes necessary" in order to aid the cause of the Democracies. This pledge was made in a press statement by President Juan Antonio Rios which declared his country is "solidly behind the United States and other nations of the western hemisphere."

But the statement added a cautious note with the declaration that "it would be senseless to provoke war with the totalitarian powers unnecessarily."

Such a step, President Rios pointed out, would involve expenditures of millions of pesos, and Chile does not have such sums at the present time.

Rural School Children Face Prospect Of Walking To Class

Scores of Richland county school children today faced the possibility of walking to their classes after Feb. 1, unless they find some other means of conveyance besides school buses.

Under an order issued by the Office of Defense Transportation for the purpose of reducing mileage of all school bus schedules throughout Ohio, transportation after Feb. 1 will be furnished only for pupils, teachers or other school employes who must walk two miles to their schools or a mile and a-half to a school bus route.

Bus schedules, under Ohio statutes, are now set up to transport persons who must walk one-half mile to a bus route or one mile to their schools.

In issuing the order, Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, warned that unless it is placed into effect by local school authorities no gasoline and mileage allowances will be made for school buses.

"Mileage and gas allowances certified after Feb. 1, depend upon the proof submitted by school authorities to the extent of adjustment of school transportation

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I think I have discovered where and how vaudeville has come back, but it is not on the stage. There has been a great deal said and written about the rebirth of the variety show, but actually what we have seen in the Broadway theaters in the past season or two has had little in common with the real vaudeville of revered (and sometimes painful) memory.

Kilgallen

Productions such as "Show Time" are more like an intimate revue than anything ever seen on the Keith Circuit. It can't claim to be old-fashioned. But vaudeville has come back, all right.

It has come back to haunt the talkies, which were supposed to have killed it in the first place. You can see it, in all its former glory, in a musical like Judy Garland's "For Me And My Gal;" you caught a glimpse of it in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," and even in the Dorothy Lamour picture, "The Fleet's In."

There is even more vaudeville in night clubs. In bistros like Leon and Eddie's where rollerskating troupes and jugglers and musicians and dog acts mingle with the conventional cafe dance teams and singers. In Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, where Pansy the horse cavorts and vaudeville veterans perform everything from fire-eating turns to comedy falls.

Somehow, I like it better this way. I never cared much for vaudeville as performed on a stage. But pared down and jazzed up in a cafe floor, it's becoming.

Passing Judith Anderson in the lobby of the Plaza the other day made me wonder if perhaps her fans seldom recognize her in the flesh—especially her film fans. You know how it is—Myrna Loy looks just like Myrna Loy, and you could never mistake Betty Grable for anyone but Betty Grable, but no actress looks less like her screen self than the Magnificent Anderson. In the flesh she is not terribly tall and she smiles frequently and wears her short hair in a curly feather bob. No one passing her on the street would be inclined to recall, shiveringly, that there went the ominous Mrs. Danvers of "Rebecca."

I believe, too, that she accomplishes this trick rather simply, with just a change of hair-do and facial expression. No putty noses or anything like that. Just talent.

One of the pleasanter aspects of the recent election, it seems to me, is that the politicians didn't go in for the distasteful—and I should think unrewarding-practice instituted in the 1940 campaign of getting actors, singers, jugglers and acrobatic teams to indorse one or another candidate. Last time, it was enough to give the casual spectators the feeling that the election was a struggle of one group of Hollywood stars against another with the fortunes of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie quite incidentally involved . . . I can go again to see Gracie Fields perform at the Waldorf's Wedgewood Room, if only to see her do a cartwheel in the middle of an aria. I don't know any other chanteuse who does that, and it's what I call giving a number a fillup.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — This $25,000 salary limit has so many ramifications out here that it calls for a few more words. Serious words.

After the decree originally sent the town staggering around in circles, and pay checks were withheld from the couple of hundred folks who had already exceeded their "$25,000 after taxes" earnings, the government relaxed that ruling and gave the go-ahead signal for the rest of 1942.

Coons

THE brief period of uncertainty, however, gave a startling preview of what may be expected here when the measure takes full effect Jan. 1. Three players went on record that they would not "work for nothing," and others so indicated informally.

There was Judy Canova, who awaited the pay-or-no-pay verdict before starting her new picture. There was Paulette Goddard who retired from a scheduled radio show because, at the time, the sponsor was forbidden to pay her salary. There was Franchot Tone, who declined to fulfill a verbal film contract for the same reason.

In each of these instances, the player indicated willingness to donate the entire proceeds to charity or to the government in taxes, which obviates any charge of "lack of patriotism" or non-cooperation. The objection was to leaving salary in the coffers of a producing company, where by the decree it had to remain.

IN VIEW of the supposed wealth of movie stars, all this may seem a joking matter to the average fan. It is not so to the actor. And it has nothing to do with his luxuries, his big mansion, or his swimming pool. There seems to be a general acceptance of the wartime necessity for retrenchment — an acceptance already underlined by the new income tax bill before the $25,000 limit was imposed.

But the actor, like every man, considers himself worthy of his hire. And beyond that, he is instinctively suspicious of a deal whereby his boss retains his salary and he is denied the right to see the color of it.

Comes 1943, and we are likely to see interesting developments as one big name after antoher collects his maximum and then faces the question of future "working for nothing." It could mean, unless Washington has an answer for it, the voluntary retirement of many currently big earners, with a consequent shortage of "big money" pictures, and reverberations through the tax-paying entertainment world which could cost the treasury millions of dollars in revenue, besides the losses on the individual stellar incomes.

WAR INDUSTRY CENTERS HIT BY MILK LACK

State as Whole Has Ample Supply, However; Price Situation Stable.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — War-time population increases and higher incomes are placing a heavy demand upon fluid milk supplies of Ohio's industrial communities, but no statewide shortage exists.

This was the concensus of state and federal milk experts today.

"It is necessary for some municipalities to reach beyond their normal milksheds to augment the supply," said a spokesman for the federal bureau of agricultural economics, "but adequate milk is available."

The latest data showed this situation prevailed at Akron, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Canton, Findlay, Sandusky and Zanesville. In these and probably other areas, dealers have been obtaining additional milk from nearby markets for use in the manufacture of butter, ice cream and cheese.

"The heaviest demand for milk and cream," said W. B. Wood, state supervisor of dairy trade practices, "is found in localities where war industries boosted the population and where war-time incomes make it possible for families to increase their consumption."

Wood emphasized that the situation resulted from the extraordinary demand—not from decrease supply.

Other sources reported that Ohio's dairy herds generally are intact.

The milk price situation has remained stable despite the growing market because Uncle Sam froze fluid wholesale and retail prices last May, fixing the highest prices of March as the legal ceilings.

The butter problem is more acute and for the same reasons—higher wages and soaring populations. Butter production is about four per cent under Ohio's output a year ago.

BROTHERS GET 75-YEAR TERMS

Expected to Appeal Sentence For Kidnaping and Rape of Ohio Girl, 16.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — Two Parkersburg, W. Va., brothers convicted of kidnaping a 16-year-old Manchester, O., girl "probably will appeal" penitentiary sentences of 75 years each, one of their attorneys, Edward Hoover, said today.

A federal jury late yesterday found Clarence, 23, and Arthur Parsons, 24, guilty of kidnaping Vivian Wells near Aberdeen, O., the night of Aug. 9. She testified Clarence raped her twice.

Judge John H. Druffel declared "it would be a pleasure to impose the death sentence."

The judge told them "the country would be better off without men like you" but withheld death sentences because "people who had nothing else to do would intercede for clemency."

Both brothers were in uniform, Miss Wells testified, although Clarence was an admitted deserter and Arthur had been discharged from the army.

"You give a black eye to every man in the country who wears a uniform," Judge Druffel told them.

The brothers' defense was based on a contention of mistaken identity, and a claim they were in Cincinnati the night of Aug. 9.

Adalene Wells, 20, testified that she and her sister, Vivian, had attended a movie in Maysville, Ky., and their automobile had broken down on the way home. Walking along the highway, they were accosted by the Parsons. She was released the next morn- brothers.

Adalene escaped near Manchester, but Vivian was taken to Lexington, Ky., and was raped twice. ing.

50 KENTUCKIANS IMPORTED TO HELP WITH OHIO FARM WORK

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Fifty husky Kentucky farmers, recruited from their hill-country marginal farms by the Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Employment Service, arrived in Columbus today to help relieve Ohio's acute farm labor shortage problem.

This immigration is the first step in a federally-sponsored experiment to solve the labor shortage situation which already has caused approximately 20 per cent of Ohio's farms to shut down or become partially idle, Andrew L. Sorensen, state director of the farm security administration said.

He said the farmers will be given a two-week intensive training course in dairy farming at Ohio State university's dairy farm, followed by one week of supervised work on privately owned dairy farms in Franklin county.

Then they will be offered jobs on northern Ohio's large dairy farms which have been hit hardest by the exodus of manpower from farm lands to the army and war industries.

The department of agriculture will pay all transportation costs and living expenses during the course. The men will live in groups of 3 or 4 in large movable trailers. They also will be furnished clothes for work on the farms.

After they are transferred to farm lands and become settled, they will bring their families from Kentucky and become permanent Ohio settlers, Sorensen said.

"If this experiment works, it will solve a very serious problem which is becoming more critical each day," he said.

E. Janette Dantzig Succumbs After Long Illness.

E. Janette Dantzig, 25, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Elliott R. Dantzig, 283 West Fourth street, died Monday afternoon at the Richland county sanatorium following an illness of several years.

She was born in Cumberland, Md., on March 13, 1917, coming to Mansfield about ten years ago where she completed her schooling and graduated from Senior high school, in the class of 1935. Prior to her illness she had practiced cosmetology here. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Surviving with her parents is her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mae Judd, of Cumberland, Md.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Jones Memorial today at 7:30 p. m. by Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church. Wednesday, the body will be taken to Cumberland, Md., where final rites will be conducted, with interment in Rosehill cemetery there.

GIVEN YEAR IN WORKHOUSE

Mansfielder Sentenced On Charge of Delinquency.

Sentenced to one year in the Columbus workhouse on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Jesse C. Marshall, 75, 558 Heineman boulevard, was taken to that institution yesterday afternoon by Richland county sheriff deputies.

Marshall was sentenced last week by Juvenile Judge Stuart Cramer. The sentence was subject to a mental test that was given by a Mansfield physician.

Two other persons, sentenced to serve 30 days in the workhouse on charges of petit larceny, were also removed there with Marshall. They were Walter E. Maloney, 35, Cincinnati, and Thomas J. Virgets, 44, Akron. Both had been arrested for shoplifting.

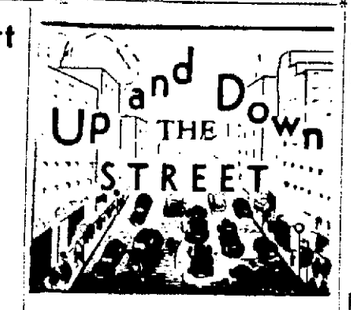
Up and Down THE STREET



Although the Mansfield Public Library had scores of student visitors last week during National Book week one of the leading events in observance of that occasion will not be held until after the first of the year, the annual Book Fair for which plans are now under way. The theme will have to do with the United Nations and the program will include an evening speaker. Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, is working on the program while other members of the staff are concerned with posters and other exhibits.

All men training for the Army and Navy air corps at the Municipal airport have been assured of a Thanksgiving dinner, with Mansfielders generously responding to a call to "adopt" them for the holiday. USO headquarters said today one woman called in and asked for six or eight of them to be her guests for dinner on Thursday.

Members and guests of the Holiday Dance club at the Friendly House will literally swing into the Thanksgiving season Wednesday night when they attend a "Harvest Swing" in the settlement gymnasium, officials said today. The dance is scheduled between the hours of 8 and 11 p. m., with refreshments to be served.

Author Louis Bromfield looked homeward for some of the names and references in his play "Feast of the Harvest" broadcast last night on the Cavalcade of America program with the writer as narrator. The story of country folk, grounded in the traditions of rural America, was laid in "Pleasant Valley"—the same name as that borne by the site of Bromfield's Malabar farm. There was casual reference, too, to Fredericktown. And much of the narrator's description could have been gleaned from a view of the valley and hills near Malabar.

Canadian Press Says Walkout Follows Women Wage Protest.

WINDSOR, Ont. — (AP) — One thousand employes of one of the Ford plants here walked off their jobs today and there were reports that several thousand workers in other plants of the same company might join them.

Canadian Press said the workers left their jobs in protest against the reported employment of two women at a starting rate of 50 cents an hour. The union asks they be paid 75 cents an hour.

The Ford plants are engaged on war orders.

SEN. PEPPER THINKS HIS PLAN TO FAIL

Rules Committee To Consider Proposal Letting Majority Invoke Cloture.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The senate today appeared likely to cling to its time-honored rules of unlimited debate despite a movement launched for changing them in order to permit breaking of filibusters by a majority vote.

Sen. Pepper (D) Ga., said that he had been assured of a hearing by the rules committee on proposed revision, but frankly indicated doubt that the movement will succeed.

A potential battle over the kind of a peace treaty which ends the war—together with America's role in the post-war world—appeared to be a strong obstacle to senate agreement for changing the rules.

Pepper, who proposed that cloture, which is limitation of debate, be voted by a majority instead of a two-thirds vote, advanced the question of a peace treaty as one reason why the rules should be changed.

"Under the present rule a minority could block ratification of a peace treaty," he said. "We don't want a repetition of the situation at the end of the war when a minority did block adoption of a treaty which might have averted the present conflict."

Senators who are vigorously opposed to the United States policing the world indefinitely after the end of the war are expected to lead a fighting against changing present rules.

Pepper's proposal grew out of defeat of the anti-poll tax bill at the hands of a southern filibuster. The measure was killed yesterday after the senate refused to vote cloture.

Many senators who favored the bill refused to vote for cloture because they wanted to preserve the tradition of unlimited debate. Only 37 voted for cloture while 41 opposed it.

Senate and house rules differ sharply. House rules on limitation of debate and germaneness of amendments are framed so that effective filibusters cannot be conducted, and the majority party usually can control business. Senate rules, however, give a minority power to block legislation indefinitely.

Coach Vern Hoffman these days is facing the Mansfield high school basketball season with equanimity, which is first cousin to Equipoise, but not as fast.

Vern says he has written to all the schools on the Tygers' home cage schedule, and all of them have assured him that they intend to fill their dates on the Mansfie'd hardwood.

The Railroaders of Cleveland Collinwood were emphatic about it. "We'll be there if we have to walk," was the Collinwood response.

Carrying out his plan of moving Andy Lameraux from center to a forward position, Hoffman believes he has found a player to take Andy's place at the tipoff spot.

The new center? Footballer Jim Burrage, who never figured in the dopesters' pre-season reckonings.

"Burrage looks as good right now as Paul Dietzel did at the beginning of last season," Hoffman declares. "He's no star but he catches on quick, and he does the things we tell him to do."

Dietzel came with a rush last season, going on a regular scoring rush in the closing games on the schedule, and through the district and regional tournaments. It will be all right if "Burge" does the same.

The Mt. Vernon News reports that the faculty manager of the Yellow Jackets wrote to a lot of big schools in the state asking for basketball games, but that all of them, including Mansfield, reported they wouldn't be interested unless someone cancelled games on them.

That's strange. The Mansfield basketball schedule, printed in the Tyger football programs throughout the past gridiron season, has the Tyger cagers booked tentatively at Mt. Vernon Feb. 6.

Add to your list of Mansfield sport figures now in England and maybe in North Africa that of Lieut Warner Peterson.

Pete (you'll remember) made a clean sweep of Mansfield tennis championships in the city tournament in 1940. He cut every ball he ever hit on the tennis courts, and when he was getting his placements down the sideline he was a tough man to beat.

Peterson has only one bad point in sports. Playing golf with him, he did fairly well as passed cross-handed.

Comes a note from Junior That's Fred Huntsman jr., of the Coolridge golf Huntsmans. Junior is now in specialist school at Great Lakes trying for a rating in the fire control division of the navy. Junior has seen enough people burning up on the links, he should know how to put out the fire.

Fritz Zivic Sued By Melio Bettina

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawsuits against former welterweight champion Fritz Zivic, instituted in Municipal Court by Lightweight Melio Bettina and his manager, Joe Gripp to recover $15,000 they allege was due them to be promoters of a Zivic-Bettina bout, came to light today.

The bout, according to Gripp, was to be between Bettina and Harry Bobo at Pittsburgh on June 24 and although Bettina and Gripp apparently closed negotiations with Zivic in the role of promoter, the contest never was staged when the Pennsylvania boxing commission refused its sanction.

* * *

Justice William T. Collins dismissed an action to have Zivic and his partners examined before trial, but counsel for Bettina and Gripp said he would institute new proceedings to have their records examined.

RECORD SET IN OHIO RACE TRACK BETTING

COLUMBUS (AP) — Wagering at Ohio horse race tracks rocketed to a record $10,407,097 total this year, $1,556,916 more than the previous top of $8,850,181 five years ago.

The high for a single meeting was $2,605,367 in 38 years at River Downs track at Cincinnati.

The state racing commission reported record high collections of $178,989 in fees and taxes on 27 meets during the year, compared with $152,335 in 1937, the previous top. Pari-mutuel taxes were $165,391 of the 1942 total, against $140,723 in 1937.

Buckeyes Prep for Seahawks

By JOHN COLBURN

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Iowa Seahawks game with Ohio State here Saturday will be an all-star show.

It'll bring together the Navy Pre-Flight school's galaxy of former college and professional gridiron stars and Ohio's newly crowned Western conference champions.

Ohio will get its first practice tonight in an endeavor to fathom how to get touchdowns past a Seahawk line that'll average better than 215 pounds and also keep that huge line from opening holes for some of the fastest backs in the football business.

The Bucks rested yesterday taking notes on defensive formations to use against Lt. Col Bernie Bierman's Navy men and reviewing "mistakes" made in Saturday's 21 to 7 win over Michigan.

Paul Sarringhaus, the Hamilton Hurricane who was a big punting passing and running cog in the Ohio victory over Michigan, was the most serious casualty. He got a banged up nose, but it shouldn't keep him on the sidelines Saturday.

The Seahawks will be out to beat Ohio, not only to knock off the champions, but to demonstrate that their only loss to Notre Dame was just one of those "off days." That demonstration is possible because Ohio beat Michigan and Michigan beat Notre Dame, 32-20.

Notre Dame trounced the Seahawks 28 to 0. Ohio State also had an "off day" this season, losing 17 to 7 to Wisconsin.

In the Seahawk starting lineup will be three ex-Ohio Staters —Dick Fisher of Columbiana, halfback in 1941, James Langhurst of Willard, fullback-captain in 1940, and Charles Ream, a tackle six years ago and recently coach at Hamilton college, Rochester, N. Y.

Another Ohioan, Cyrus Walden who attended Youngstown college is a third string right halfback.

The Seahawks will line up with Raymond Kreick and Milton Kutner at the ends, Ream and Charles Schultz at tackles, Gene Flick and Fred Gage at guards, George Svendsen at center, Forrest Evashevski at quarterback, Fisher and Langhurst at halfbacks, and Ed Jankowski at fullback.

Kreick, Svendsen, Gage, Schultz and Jankowski were members of the famed Green Bay Packers professional football team. Flick was on the 1941 Big Ten title-winning Minnesota eleven. Kutner won national attention at the University of Texas, and Evashevski was Michigan's great blocking quarterback from 1938-40.

John Michelosen, Vernal LeVoir, Bob Swisher and Al Koupher round out the Seahawks' excellent ball-carrying personnel. Michelosen played under Jock Sutherland with Pittsburgh and the Brooklyn pro team. LeVoir played with Minnesota, Swisher went to the Chicago Bears after starring at Northwestern and Koupher went to the University of Iowa.

NO LENIENCY

Judge Cracks Down on Serving of Liquor to Minors.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O. — (NS)—Serving notice that adults furnishing intoxicants to minors can expect no leniency, Juvenile Court Judge J. H. Lamnect sentenced Willis Whiting, 41, Newcomerstown, to one year in the workhouse.

Whiting pleaded guilty to a charge filed by Juvenile Officer Harry Fisher, who said that the Newcomerstown man purchased three bottles of wine for two 13-year-old boys who became intoxicated and were picked up by Gnadenhutten police.

The youths told juvenile authorities that they gave Whiting the money to buy the wine and also gave him a dime to buy himself a beer.

THANKSGIVING TABLES TO SAG DESPITE RATION

They'll Be Full of Costliest Food Since 1919 as Other Lands Feel War's Pinch.

tables, milk, butter, cheese, fresh apples and molasses.

In sharp contrast is the global food picture which depicts a hungry world.

ENGLAND

Daily, more than $5,000,000 worth of groceries is being taken from America and shipped to the Allies, with the bulk of these shipments making first stop in the British Isles.

Best fed nation of Europe is England, which has the following weekly food rations compared with the average pre-war consumption.

	Today	Pre-War
Meat (approximate)	1 lb.	1¾ lb.
Butter, margarine (butter 2 oz.)	6 oz.	10½ oz.
Cooking fats	2 oz.	10½ oz.
Sugar	8 oz.	16 oz.
Cheese	8 oz.	2 7 oz.
Tea	2 oz.	2.6 oz.
Bacon and ham	4 oz.	5½ oz.

Preserves, jam, marmalade, syrup are rationed at 1 pound each four weeks, slightly lower than pre-war averages. From 2 to 5 eggs are allocated to non-priority consumers each month, against 15 a month before hostilities. The British milk scheme allows children from 6 to 18 years of age 2½ quarts of milk a week and expectant mothers and children under 6, 4½ quarts.

GERMANY

Despite a harvest estimated at 15 to 20 per cent below normal, Germany is the best-fed continental nation. Food rationing is much more successful in this war than during the last, because it was inaugurated in August, 1939, four days before the invasion of Poland.

The average German each week can buy almost 3½ pounds of flour (not white) and 5½ ounces Nahrmittel (oat flakes, noodles, semolina, etc.) ½ pound of sugar, 1 ounce of artificial honey, 6 ounces of jams and marmalades, 7 ounces fats, 1½ ounces cheese and one ounce of curdes; or, 4½ ounces curds 10½ ounces meat (about ⅔ pound), 5½ pounds of potatoes and almost 3 ounces of coffee. Eggs are available at the rate of 1 to 8 a months and children are given 2 to 6 quarts of skimmed milk.

FRANCE

France, under the jurisdiction of Vichy, was known as the land of thin men. Now, with the food supplies of North Africa cut off, Frenchmen will suffer greater hardships. Average loss of weight since the armistice of 1940 was estimated at 11 pounds a person.

As to Nov. 1, Frenchmen were getting about 100 to 120 grams of meat (about 3½ ounces), and ¾ pound of bread a week. Ersatz pate foie gras was made from peanut flour, biscuits from caseine and sugar from grape residue. Rice was so scarce it was issued to children under three only on doctor's prescriptions. In what was Unoccupied France, weekly allotments consisted of 1½ quarts of wine, 3¼ pounds of flour, ¼ pound sugar, 3½ ounces fat, 1¾ ounces cheese and 1 ounce ersatz coffee.

POLAND

Instead of the daily 2400 calories necessary to maintain a healthy existence, the food rations allowed to Poles this year did not amount to more than 680 calories daily, and those to Jews only 400. A criterion of the food discrepancies between Germans and Poles is bread. Germans, in Poland, get a weekly allowance of 4½ pounds; Poles subsist on 2½, ¼ pound sugar, 3½ ounces meat and 4 ounces of synthetic honey. Once Poland was an agricultural nation exporting food products.

ITALY

Local rationing in once sunny Italy varies according to the supplies on hand and eating habits of the population. In northern Italy, only 10½ ounces of rice and macaroni paste are obtainable each week, while in southern Italy the weekly allotment is almost 2 pounds. In Rome, average Italians are allowed one egg a week, 1¾ pounds flour, ¼ pound sugar, 3½ ounces fats, 2 ounces cheese and no coffee.

GREECE

The word "rationing" cannot be used here. There is no food. Neutral observers have reported 220,000 deaths from starvation from August to March this year. In normal years Greece imported 350,000 tons of wheat, and the only food supplies today are those being shipped into the country by "mercy" Swedish and Turkish ships.

BELGIUM

Last winter more than 2,000,000 Belgians did not see a potato. Meat has been rationed to 15 grams—about ½ ounce—a day. In general, the deficit of essential foodstuff is 60 per cent in the case of adults and 50 per cent for pregnant women. Cats are sold for 100 francs. Dog meat is 50 francs a pound on the black market.

NETHERLANDS

Only unrationed foodstuffs are fish, expensive and scarce, skimmed milk, fruit, if obtainable, and vegetables, difficult to get. Early this year, the Dutch were getting 63 ounces of bread a week, 10½ ounces meat, 13½ ounces sugar and jam, and 6½ ounces fat.

NORWAY

Once noted for the fish it exported, Norway today has an acute fish shortage. "Official" rations permit the Norwegians to obtain about 65 ounces bread, 7½ ounces fats, ½ ounce coffee or tea, 7 ounces sugar and 3 pints of milk each week.

CZECHOSLAVAKIA

Czechs have been treated relatively well by the Germans because of their highly regarded industrial skills. Ordinary weekly rations include 62 ounces bread, 14 ounces meat, 10½ ounces sugar, 6 ounces fats, 1½ ounces ersatz coffee and ¼ ounce ersatz tea. Heavy industrial workers are granted heavier rations.

JUGOSLAVIA

Meat is rationed at ½ pound a week, while milk is hardly obtainable. Bread consists mostly of maize. In those portions of the country still under Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, the food problem is acute, as transportation facilities do not exist.

DENMARK

Once known as "the larder of Europe," this land still produces a surplus, but will soon be on short rations. Today, the Danes get 75 ounces of bread each week, 1 ounce fat and an adequate supply of necessary foodstuffs.

RUSSIA

Three rationing systems are used today—for hard manual workers, other workers, and for non-workers and children. Moscow workers receive between 25 and 30 ounces bread daily; non-workers and children 14 ounces. Moscovites are still fairly well supplied with meat, butter and sugar. Expectant and nursing mothers get additional monthly rations of 14 ounces butter, 10½ ounces sugar, 21 ounces cereals and 10 pints of milk.

JAPAN

Japanese lived on a rationed diet long before Pearl Harbor. Fish, once a main source of food, has been greatly restricted on the market, and housewives may stand in line all day to get ¼ pound of beans, 2 carrots or 1 small fish—and then go away boasting if they have been able to get anything except rice.

STUDENTS PLAN MASS BUYING OF WAR BONDS

Ashland College Gymnasium To Be Scene of 'Orgy' Friday Night.

ASHLAND—Climaxing a week-long drive for bonds and war stamp sales on the Ashland college campus, the special defense committee of the student council is planning a mass demonstration and "buying orgy" Friday evening when the entire student body as well as faculty members will gather in the college gymnasium to purchase the bonds and stamps for which they have been setting aside their money this week.

"Nothing short of one hundred per cent participation will be accepted by the committee," Miss Avis Colbert of Medina, chairman of the committee asserted in announcing the drive.

Miss Colbert hastened to add that this affair should not be considered as a token demonstration to satisfy any regulation but a "give all you can" campaign to actually assist the war effort. "Ashland college students are just as anxious to win this war as anyone and we want to do our part even though our earnings cannot begin to approach that of war workers," she continued.

President E. G. Mason expressed his pleasure at this action initiated by the students and called on the employes of the school to buy all they can this week in addition to their regular purchases.

Plans call for a snake dance through the business section of the city and the attending of the community sing in a body following the purchasing ceremony.

Assisting Miss Colbert on the Defense Commitee are: Miss Margaret Stranahan of Columbia Station and Miss Bernice Henry, Max Clark and Howard Barnhill all of the vicinity of Ashland.

BAN LIGHTS

Ashland Merchants Agree To Save Holiday Electricity.

ASHLAND — There will be no special Christmas lighting in Ashland's downtown business district this year. This was the decision made at a meeting of Ashland merchants Monday called by H. L. Page, chairman of the retail advisory committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

This is in keeping with the national effort to conserve electricity necessary to war industry and follows the plan of many other Ohio towns and cities.

Stores will remain open until 9 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday prior to Christmas and until 6 p. m. on Christmas eve.

COMMISSIONERS END CONTRACT

ASHLAND — Ashland county commissioners Monday had to cancel a contract for installation of a new sewage system at the county home due to inability to obtain about $90 worth of essential materials. The contract had been let on May 15, 1942 to Ralph Tinsley of Ashland for $2,850 after the State Department of Health ordered the new system installed.

The War Production board refused approval because of shortage of critical material.

GALION CIVIL DEFENSE UNITS TO MOBILIZE

All Members of Emergency Corps To Report at Posts on Dec. 7.

GALION — Civilian Defense Director Robert L. Moulton said Monday night at the meeting of the Civilian Defense council that all Galion members of all emergency corps will be expected to report in to the control center when the state-wide mobilization is held Dec. 7.

Although the recently purchased air raid sirens have not yet arrived Eric Brooke reported that it was hoped the sirens would be here at the time of the mobilization.

Moulton said that those who have a part in the mobilization but who are employed in war industries should report when the signal is given at 12:25 p. m., on Dec. 7 if it is possible, without interference with their work.

John Schalk reported that the alert signal will come directly to the police station, and men from W. R. Widrig's air raid warden class are scheduled for duty at the control station. The council was also informed that 3,500 posters have been made which will be distributed to signify emergency centers of the city.

BATTLE FIRE IN ASHLAND

Service Station Manager and Firemen Fight Blaze After Gasoline Explodes.

ASHLAND — Burning gasoline at the Texaco filling station at the corner of Claremont and College avenues Monday afternoon threatened serious damage for a short time but was extinguished after burning up one gasoline pump and scorching doors on the filling station and adjoining garage.

The gasoline overflowed from an underground storage tank which was being filled from a gasoline tank truck and it is believed became ignited when a passerby struck a match. Floyd Baker, manager of the filling station, extinguished some of the most threatening flames with a fire extinguisher and the Ashland fire department, answering the call, used chemicals to extinguish remaining flames.

Two iron grates used as manhole covers to the underground storage tanks for repair work were blown out by explosion of the flames. The alarm was received at the fire department at 3:20 p. m.

HUNT MURDERER AFTER FLIGHT

Police Seek Husband Of 'Tony Jo' —Also Held For Murder.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. — (INS) — State police today searched for Claud Henry, 29, convicted murderer, and Clyde Byars, 23, who escaped from the central state prison farm by crashing a truck through the prison yard gate.

Roads leading to the Lake Charles prison in Louisiana were watched for Henry, husband of the notorious Tony Jo Henry who is held there awaiting execution for murder. Authorities thought Henry might try to communicate with or try to see his wife.

FOOD'S SHORT

San Francisco Hit During Wave Of Thanksgiving Buying.

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Supplies of turkeys, eggs, meats, butter and many other foods grew slimmer yet today in this crowded war production area—and in most sections of the west, for that matter—with another hysterical buying wave in advance of Thanksgiving.

Sales of coffee already were frozen, butter and eggs were rationed by grocers themselves, and there was scant letup in sight for the critical shortage of meats of all kinds.

1,500 REGISTER FOR EXTRA GAS

First Day Registrations Bring Few Challenges, Ration Officials Say.

satisfaction has manifested itself."

Registration is at John Simpson Junior high school gymnasium, applicants using the east door of the building. The hours are 1 to 5 p. m. and 6 to 9 p. m.

After brief disturbances at the opening of registration yesterday afternoon the 60 volunteer registrars mastered the situation and things moved smoothly, Spreng reported. About 75 volunteers conducted the evening registration.

Many applicants ignored the alphabetical registration dates, Spreng said, and this added to the early confusion. A table is maintained for A book applicants who can prove they were unable to register last week.

Registration for supplemental gas will continue Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday at the same hours.

At the rationing board office, 43 North Mulberry street, many domestic consumers "jumped the gun" yesterday in applying for war ration book No. 1—the sugar coupon book—in order to qualify for coffee rationing when it starts Monday.

Registration yesterday, today, and tomorrow had been set for institutional users only, with hotel and restaurant operators to declare their needs later.

William Jeffers, rubber administrator, and independent petroleum operators today were to appear before a house interstate subcommittee on oil today in an effort by rebellious congressmen to delay the gasoline rationing set for Dec. 1, until definite need for such a program is established. Price Boss Leon Henderson yesterday upheld the stand of Jeffers who declared that "no pressure group" could forestall the gas rationing set to start next Tuesday.

WILLKIE SILENT ON SNUB REPORT

Has No Comment On Story War Vets Will Shun Meeting.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wendell Willkie had no comment today on reports from Toronto that the Canadian World War Veterans' association will shun an aid-to-Russia rally at which he will speak tomorrow night.

He indicated that he was sorry his views were not in accord with those of all Canadians but that he could not, in conscience, change them for that reason.

Willkie's position has been that the British commonwealth of nations has no stronger supporter or well wisher than himself but that British imperialism — as distinguished from the democratic tradition of the commonwealth—should be revamped.

WIDOW SLAIN

Body of Charitable Woman Found In Boston Apartment.

BOSTON—(AP)—The torch slaying of a charitable elderly widow in the kitchen of her apartment sent police today on a search for a man identified only as having "much blood on his clothing."

Police investigators said her head had been bludgeoned with a flatiron found on the floor nearby, that inflammable liquid had been poured on her and that a paper and wood had been piled around her and set afire sometime yesterday afternoon.

room door an open window told the police that Mrs. Allen had escaped to the outside. A bullet had plowed through a metal part of the door and flattened against a tile wall about a foot from where Mrs. Allen said she had been standing in the tub.

Mrs. Allen found a footing on a concrete wall around a cellar stairway well which prevented her drop of 11 feet to the concrete steps. After reaching the ground Mrs. Allen hid in the basement of the apartment building until summoned by the police.

According to the police report Mrs. Allen told them that she had filed a divorce action in Cleveland, her husband countering with a cross-petition. He had asked her, she told police, to come here for a business conference.

Allen, according to the police, cursed them freely after his arrest, demanding that they call, or permit him to call Mayor W. J. Locke.

"I elected him mayor over the radio," Whipp and Hecht quoted Allen as saying. "It's time for him to do me a favor." Allen continued. Locke was out of the city.

Whipp today praised the "football tactics" of Patrolman Hecht in disarming Allen. A few nights ago, Hecht had interviewed Allen in his apartment following a car theft report. "He showed me a gun then," Hecht said.

The gun, a .32-calibered revolver, is held as evidence.

GERMANS LOSE 50,000, CLAIM RED ADVICES

Russians Close in Steadily on Whole Salient in Stalingrad Area.

fensive lines had been penetrated.

(The communique said the Russians were attacking south of Stalingrad and in the Don bend without regard to losses, and added that "counter measures are proceeding.")

Battlefront dispatches said the Germans were suffering heavy losses in the Kalmyk steppes where they had pentrated late in the fall. Two infantry divisions were declared routed there and the Russians were said to be advancing on a 12-mile front.

Frontline dispatches indicated that the Germans were using reinforcements and battling desperately to hold their Stalingrad corridor.

"Several tens" of German and other Axis divisions were reported entrenched and fortified in positions guarded by minefields and tank traps and laid out in a defense system in some places five or six lines deep.

Details of the advances were not given but many hundreds more Germans were reported killed, adding to the previous Russian estimates that the enemy lost 50,000 slain and, captured through the first four days of the drive.

The regular midday communique did not name any of the towns captured but said that "our units occupied a number of populated places" northwest of Stalingrad, indicating that the Axis forces that have been battering at that city for three months were in growing danger of encirclement.

The Russians were reported to have driven one prong of the two-pronged offensive as far as 125 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

Siege-toughened defenders of Stalingrad helped themselves, too, clearing the Germans from 17 blockhouses, killing 250 and capturing two guns and an assortment of smaller arms, the communique said.

The offensive columns northwest of the city were said to have smashed enemy resistance at several points.

In a surprise attack on one town, the Germans were reported to have been unable to organize a defense and 1,000 of them were killed while 70 trucks and 25 planes were destroyed.

South of Stalingrad, one unit was said to have killed 850 of the enemy and captured 520, along with 35 guns, 19 trucks and 49 heavy and light machine-guns.

Elsewhere in this area Russian armored units in active pursuit of the fleeing invaders destroyed 14 tanks, 28 trucks and eight guns.

To the northwest near Leningrad, a Soviet detachment was credited with the capture of an enemy strong point and nowhere along the front lines was there any indication that the Axis forces had made any gains.

A special communique last night and today's early morning battle report told of the Russian troops maintaining a swift pace in their advance on both sides of the Volga bastion and while no claims were made that Stalingrad's besiegers were encircled, the positions of towns already reported captured showed the trap was closing fast.

(London sources estimated the Axis might have 300,000 to 400,000 men in the imperiled area.)

The special report indicated also that Nazi losses in men and material were mounting swiftly as the offensive gained momentum, 12,600 being reported killed in Monday's operations, making the death list 26,000 for four days, while Monday's prisoners were counted at 11,000, raising the four-day total to 21,000.

The total Axis losses in dead and captured thus stood at 50,000.

Advance lines ran from south of Stalingrad southeast in some places [illegible] fluttered over the Kalmyk steppes [illegible] German drive was [illegible] around Kotelnikovo.

While the Russians drive ahead in the offensive that has been averaging distances of six to 12 miles daily on the various sectors, long columns of captives were reported moving east shivering in the cold.

Latest front line reports indicated that at most points the Germans were resisting the Russian advance fiercely.

With the Soviets in Kalach due west of Stalingrad it seemed apparent that another few days of continued Russian advances would cut this corridor completely and leave the Germans at the Volga city isolated except for air communication.

The capture of Tundutovo and Aksai to the south of Stalingrad deprived the enemy of two more roads—roads vitally needed in supply country at the Kalmyk steppe between Stalingrad and Astrakhan.

Himmler Orders Half of Polish-Jews Slain

LONDON — (UR) — Heinrich Himmler, head of the Nazi Gestapo, has ordered that one-half of the large Jewish population in occupied Poland be exterminated by the end of the year, reports from the Polish underground movement to the Polish government-in-exile here said today.

The first step in the bloody program, it was said, would be to kill 50 per cent of the thousands of Jews living in ghettoes established by the Nazis. The remainder would be "liquidated" later.

There were 3,113,900 Jews, or 9.8 per cent of the total population, in Poland according to the

U. S. Planes Hit St. Nazaire Sub Base

LONDON (AP)—Four-motored Flying Fortress and Liberator bombers which attacked the German U-boat base at St. Nazaire on the French coast yesterday afternoon destroyed at least 15 enemy fighters and "many bursts" were seen on the target a joint British-American communique announced today.

Fighters of the Royal Air Force made supporting and diversionary sweeps over France during the raid.

BUSINESS, CIVIC LEADERS HEAR PLAN TO FORM VICTORY LEAGUE

Mansfield joined other cities throughout the nation in the formation of a Victory Service league Monday when a group of Mansfield business and civic leaders gathered at a luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The invitations were extended by W. A. Brandenburg, president of Mohican Chevrolet company, appointed Mansfield headquarters of the VSL.

The Victory Service League, according to Brandenburg, has been founded as a patriotic organization of car and truck operators who are pledging themselves to car conservation in the interests of maintaining America's civilian transportation system. The purpose is to assure conservation of passenger cars and trucks, and bring to the nation a full realization that the motorist must protect his equipment to get the most economical mileage, and to prolong the driving life of the car or truck he is now using.

Every motorist is eligible, an invited to join the VSL, Brandenburg stated, adding that there is no membership charge.

He urged guests at the league meeting to aid in the drive to enroll new members, all of whom will receive a membership card, a car emblem and a free auto conservation inspection.

Among those present at the initial meeting were Charles L. Kafer, Mansfield florist; Norman L. Wolfe, county auditor; Atty. Herbert H. Schettler, president of the Kiwanis club; G. E. Kalbfleisch, municipal judge and head of the Civilian Defense council, Lewis F. Hartman, vice president and secretary of the Hartman Electrical Manufacturing company; H. B. Soulen, vice president and factory manager of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company; A. C. Rhoads, secretary-treasurer of the Tappan Stove company.

Chief of Police Thomas M. Bell; John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, Merle C. Pecht, treasurer and general manager of the Martin Hardware company, and president of the Retail Merchants association; C. C. Luft, manager of Vercoe and company, and president of the Gyro club; Henry G. Brunner, vice president of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank; Dean W. Rural School Children Face Prospect Of Walking To Class according to these policies," Delbert Woodford, state director of school transportation, explained.

Just what per cent of Richland county's 2,870 pupils who ride the buses daily would be affected by the new order, Boyd Robinson, county superintendent said he was not prepared to estimate without making a study of the pupil transportation records of each school in the county's 11 districts.

Robinson said he had received no official word concerning the revision in schedules ordered by ODT but that conservation of schedules had been touched upon in a news letter received from the state department of education last June. There are now 65 school buses in operation in Richland county.

All schedules in Ohio must be completely reorganized under ODT regulations," Woodford, state director of school transportation, pointed out. "The order calls for reorganization on a county-wide basis, hence it will be necessary for local school boards, in which Ohio law places virtually complete authority, to cooperate within counties to draft plans meeting the ODT regulations."

Approximately 6,800 school buses are used in Ohio to transport about 295,000 children daily in 1,500 school districts, Woodford said.

"Each local school administrative unit," he explained, "is required to make a comprehensive study of school transportation in cooperation with adjoining units and with state federal authorities. A map, prepared for an area about the size of an average county will be the basis for reorganizing routes."

for making and breaking war quotas."

"In 1918 we were the first county in the U. S. A. to exceed its quota in war stamps," said Eliot. "Our quota was $1,000,000 in stamps. We bought $1,250,000. Moreover we went over our bond quota for World war I by a substantial figure."

Every business firm and every industrial plant, whose employes have not already pledged 10 per cent of their weekly pay for war bonds, was urged by Eliot to help employes organize a new campaign so that the desired quota can be reached by Dec. 7. Each firm is to notify the war bond office as quickly as its quota is reached.

The time for reaching the 10 per cent mark for all companies in the county is 12:25 p. m., Dec. 5, the hour chosen by Gov. John W. Bricker to solemnly commemorate the attack on Pearl Harbor.

A special speakers' committee has been appointed to stimulate interest in the 10 per cent deduction plan by appearing before mass meetings of employes. Lowell Moore, war service chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce, heads the group that includes Edwin Balyeat, Ned Brooks, James Morgan, Harry Hollingsworth Richard Hinshaw and Roscoe McGinty. Speakers will be available for meetings called for 25 or more people.

principally to the westward of American positions, are virtually cut off from the rest of their forces in the northeastern Solomons.

Knox said that the Americans meanwhile were continuing to widen their area of control, particularly by pressing back the enemy forces on the American western front.

He confirmed that fighting had been going on to the westward of Point Cruz, which is a little more than four miles beyond the airfield.

From the extreme of this action on the west to the farthest point of action on the east flank at Tetere, where a Japanese force of several hundred men was wiped out early this month, is a distance of approximately 16 miles, while the depth of the American-held area at the center around the airfield is about four miles.

This expanding territory, however, is less than three per cent of the entire island of Guadalcanal, officers at the secretary's conference brought out.

Knox was asked whether the objective of present operations was finaly and completely to drive the Japanese out of the island, but confined himself to responding that elimination of the enemy from Guadalcanal naturally had always been the American purpose.

Townsend Rules Dover Player Within Age Limit.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, today dismissed a charge filed by New Philadelphia that Dan Petrella, star fullback on Dover's undefeated football team, was ineligible for participation in high school sports.

Townsend said officials of New Philadelphia high school contended Petrella was 21, but a hearing yesterday revealed a "preponderance of evidence," the commissioner added, that the athlete was not that old. Had Townsend ruled Petrella ineligible, Dover would have been forced to forfeit all games in which he played.

U. S., BRITISH PLANES LASH AXIS SHUTTLE

Air Route to Tunisia Becomes Scene of Flaming Battle, Expected To Be Tough.

raid on an enemy-held airfield in Tunisia and a Vichy broadcast told of heavy air raids last night by Germans and Italians on Algiers, Bone and Bougie, Allied-eld ports in Algeria.

A heavy bombing assault on Bizerte and strafing of grounded enemy planes at Palermo, the Sicilian base from which Axis reinforcements are being flown to Tunisia, were carried out Sunday night by the RAF, the Cairo war bulletin said.

An Axis merchant ship was sunk the same night by British torpedo planes southeast of Sardinia. Cannon-toting British planes attacked a schooner of the Tunisia east coast yesterday.

The Middle East command said aerial activity was on a small scale yesterday over Libya, where the British 8th army has occupied and passed on west of Agedabia at the heels of Marshal Rommel's licked Africa Corps making for El Agheila.

From Rome, the Italian high command broadcast that reconnaissance clashes occurred yesterday in Libya and on the Tunisian border while in aerial operations eight Allied planes were claimed shot down and five Allied ships, including a destroyer, heavily damaged.

The general picture in Africa was improved greatly by the announced adherence of French forces at Dakar to Admiral Jean Darlan, now cooperating with the Allies in North Africa, but the task of driving Axis forces into the sea grew in magnitude hourly.

The Allied advance toward the core of German resistance in the Tunis-Bizerte region of northeastern Tunisia has been hampered and slowed by Axis air forces, reports from headquarters indicated, although British Spitfires and other Allied fighter planes are now in action and have scored notable successes.

German bombers, operating from Italian bases in Sardinia and Sicily, can hop over to Tunisia in little more than an hour and the Axis air bases in Tunisia have been mightily reinforced with fighters and bombers, some flown from the Russian front, it was said.

The action of French leaders in Dakar in throwing their lot with Admiral Darlan was regarded by official Allied quarters in North Africa as "purely a French matter," but the acquisition of the excellent naval port by Darlan was recognized as of great advantage to the Allies.

It was assumed that the port would be thrown open to Allied warships and shipping as were Casablanca, Oran and Algiers, providing an important base in the South Atlantic. But, above all, it removed the possibility that the base might be used for Axis submarines and thus wiped out a large threat to shipping in the South Atlantic.

The disposition of the French warships now anchored at Dakar was not announced.

With the Dakar problem settled, the hold of the Axis on Africa was confined to a narrow coastal strip, stretching from the region of El Agheila in Libya to west of Bizerte, on the extreme northern tip of Tunisia.

This line has been reported cut by French troops near the Libyan-Tunisian border and in the region of Gabes, but the Allied position there was uncertain. The German radio claimed yesterday that the entire Tunisian coast down to Tripoli was in Axis hands.

The German news agency DNB also claimed that an important railway junction in the frontier area between Algeria and Tunisia had been captured in "the first major clash between British and German armored troops," but there was no confirmation of these reports.

The Morocco radio reported this morning that Algiers had four air alarms last night and that some damage was caused by raiders. Several Axis planes were reported shot down during the raids.

RAF and American Flying Fortress bombers were also busy although much work obviously must be done to fit North African airfields and furnish supplies for the fleets of Allied planes to come.

The RAF bombed docks and ships at Bizerte, setting one ship afire and scoring near hits on others, it was reported.

Sicilian airports and airports in Tunisia apparently are regularly attacked by Allied bombers.

There were only scant reports concerning the land fighting, but the Allies took 40 German prisoners in one recent engagement. An Allied communique reported that investment of Axis fortifications continued "according to plan."

The Morocco radio reported without confirmation that British, American and French troops had launched an attack against Axis positions in northern Tunisia and said the fighting was growing "more and more violent."

The British Eighth army, driving Field Marshal Rommel's broken army across Libya, reported yesterday that progress was being made "in the neighborhood of Agedabia," some 70 miles from Agheila, where Rommel may decide to make a stand against the triumphant British army.

French Colonials Rip Italian Column

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa — (UP) — French colonial troops, exacting a first payment for Benito Mussolini's stab in the back of stricken France in 1940, ripped an Italian force to pieces in one of the fiercest fights of the developing Tunisian campaign, reports to headquarters said today.

An Italian column attacked the French in superior force in north central Tunisia yesterday, under the protection of a strong force of German Stuka dive-bombers.

The Frenchmen met the full shock of the Italian attack, stopped it and, in a counter-attack, gave the Italians what headquarters informants called "a terrific beating."

Allied Spitfire fighter planes roared into the fight and, it was reported, shot down a number of the Stukas while anti-aircraft guns accounted for others.

News of the French victory reached here as Gen. Emile Bethouat of the French army joined the staff of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied commander in chief, as liaison officer between the French and American armies, and as headquarters welcomed the news that Admiral Jean Francois Darlan had brought Dakar and all French West Africa into the Allied camp.

Yanks Advance Upon Buna Yard-By-Yard

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA —(AP)—American and Australian soldiers fought their way yard-by-yard toward Buna today against Japanese forces that apparently have chosen to be exterminated rather than to surrender their southernmost New Guinea beachhead.

Extending the picture of relentless envelopment, today's midday communique reported an Australian jungle column had moved into Gona, enemy anchor 12 miles above Buna, and was mopping up the die-hard garrison there.

Simultaneously, American forces overran Cape Endaiadere which lies three miles southeast of Buna, overcoming stiff resistance from many machinegun nests and treetop snipers.

While some of the Allied left wing forces were completing the mop-up job in Gona, others turned down the coast toward Sanananda, between Gona and Buna, which the enemy was reported to occupy in force.

The Japanese were resisting fiercely around Buna although they were forced to fight with no air support and no sea support. General MacArthur's bombers kept close watch along the coast for any effort to reinforce or evacuate the Japanese units which are being slowly shoved back into the sea.

Allied planes continued to support the ground advance and one formation swept over the Kumisi river, which curves around the battle area to the northwest, to sink a number of rafts on which Japanese who had been cut off from their Buna base were trying to reach the sea.

With Gona entered and Allied troops reported on the beach between Una and Gona, the last points of resistance seemed to be at Buna and at Sanananda. American troops were reported fighting yesterday at Buna mission, a mile from the town and it was apparent that the Japanese foothold there and at Sanananda could be no more than two or three miles deep, at best.

While the ground forces were shoving the enemy out of one of his best bases for potential invasion of Australia, allied airmen gave continuing attention to Japanese-held bases on Portugese Timor which lies threateningly northwest of the island continent.

Chinese Expect Jap Drive On Yunnan

CHUNGKING —(AP)— Increasing signs of a major Japanese drive in Yunnan province, the area sandwiched between enemy-held Burma and French Indo-China in southwesternmost China, were reported today by the army spokesman.

The spokesman estimated the Japanese had two divisions in Thailand, one in Indo-China and six in Burma. (With auxiliaries this could mean a total of 150,000 to 200,000 men.) All railroad traffic in Indo-China is devoted to Japanese troop movements, he said.

CHAPTER XIV

Livia smiled, but the "all my wives" was faintly jarring. She wondered whether all his wives had been to this same shop. Judging by the familiar greeting of the proprietor, they had.

"May I suggest this square-cut diamond?" the jeweler produced a magnificent gleaming stone balanced on a thin band of platinum.

"It's much too big," protested Livia, but she tried it on her finger. "Just to see what it looks like."

"Well?" Charles asked finally.

"It's wonderful," breathed Livia.

"How much is it?"

The jeweler hesitated. "For you, Mr. Fordyce—I make a special price—for you, it is seven thousand dollars; but believe me it cost me that. I make no profit on the ring at all." Charles grinned.

"Just for me you'll sell it for $6,000, eh?" They compromised at $6,200. Livia interrupted:

"But it's too big for me. I'd like a smaller ring, please." Nevertheless she was pleased that they ignored her. It was fun to be rich, even though it were a drama. But she had her way with the wedding ring. She insisted on a thin, plain gold band. She left the shop wearing the engagement ring, and her left hand seemed heavy and conspicuous.

It was time for lunch, and they went to Petrino's at the top of the Saks building in Beverly Hills. Jack Tennant, the publicity man, was there lunching with a syndicate columnist. He waved to them as they came in and whispered to the reporter.

"Livia Clarkson and Charles Fordyce—I brought them together.

"What's that on the third finger left hand?" said the reporter. "Maybe there's a story." Tennant brought him over to the table.

"How are you, Mr. Fordyce?" He genuflected before the director and Livia, and introduced the reporter.

"Can you keep a secret?" Charles asked Tennant, grinning.

"Yes, but I don't think my friend here can—he has seven hundred papers," warned the press agent.

"Shall we tell them, Livia?" Charles asked her.

"They seem to know." She flushed. No secret in Hollywood could be kept long.

"When and where?" the reporter demanded.

"But it's an elopement," Livia said, "If we tell them when and where, it just isn't an elopement."

"It's still an elopement in Hollywood," Charles told her. He told the reporter they were leaving from the Burbank field at 10 that evening.

"Where are you going for the honeymoon?" he wanted to know.

"Where shall we go?" Charles asked Livia. Livia was now thoroughly embarrassed. This was not romance. It was a business deal, with the newspaperman and press agent sitting in.

"I don't know," she said.

"We could go on to New York. There are still some good shows there." It was the end of March.

"No, I want to come back to Hollywood." The reporter put away his notebook.

"What's this about cutting you out of 'June Madness'?" he asked. "And, by the way, how about your career, are you going on with it?"

Charles answered for her:

"Yes. And now for Pete's sake, good-bye."

"Okay, Mr. Fordyce." The men left them.

"It'll be in the late afternoon editions," Charles said to Livia, taking her hand. Her face was serious. "You don't mind, do you?"

"Oh, no, except—"

"Honey, this is Hollywood. It's better to have the press on your side than against you."

Livia wanted to go home after lunch.

"I feel nervous, and I want to think."

"Thinking is bad for pretty girls," Charles said. "And if you think I'm letting you out of my sight until we're married, you're wrong." Then she would have to talk to Bruce with Charles at her side. A telephone was brought to their table.

She was quite relieved when the Chinese boy said over the wire:

"Missy Nolan, he not in—he not in long time. He no sleep here. No, me not worried. Missy Nolan take plenty good care of himself." She wondered where he was. Probably with that Saskia woman. He would read about her marriage in the paper.

Charles did not ask her why she was calling Bruce. But she told him.

"I felt I ought to tell him. But this is the last time. From now on it's just you and me."

"It had better be," he warned, smiling, but his voice indicated he was serious. "And now we'll do some more shopping."

He insisted on buying her a little sable jacket. Livia gasped at the price—$3,000. And a dress and a hat. He accompanied her through the lingerie department, and she was embarrassed when he picked out six filmy, lace-trimmed nightgowns.

They went to a store which sold expensive bags and trunks, and left with a luxurious dressing case full of silver-capped bottles.

Then Livia called for a shopping truce.

"I have everything I can possibly need. Please take me home."

Only then did Charles take Livia back to her apartment, but he stayed with her while she packed her belongings. She left most of them with the landlady.

"Until I return."

Then she dressed herself in the new dress, hat, and sable jacket and put into the new suitcase and dressing case all the new clothes. They drove to Charles' house for a dinner that Livia could not eat. The story of the impending elopement was on the front pages of the afternoon papers.

The chauffeur drove them to the airport. There a chartered plane awaited them, its motors tuned and roaring. A small group of cameramen and reporters asked questions and took photographs. They were getting into the plane, when they heard a sound of scuffling and angry voices at the gate. It was Bruce, trying to get through. He was very drunk.

"Let's go," Fordyce said quickly.

"Please," Livia begged him. "That's Bruce Nolan—"

But Charles was impatient to be off. "We're ready," he told the pilot, who still hesitated.

Several men held Bruce, but he broke away from them and weaved toward the plane.

"I must talk to him," Livia said helplessly to Fordyce. He scarned her face.

"Okay—wait a minute," he told the pilot.

Charles leaned against the bright aluminum of the plane, and watched Livia walk to Bruce. He swore softly when Bruce stumbled, and frowned when Bruce smiled apologetically at Livia.

"I tried to get you on the 'phone," Charles heard Livia say. "I wanted to tell you about this." She waved vaguely at the waiting plane.

"Sure you did," said Bruce breating heavily.

"Don't make a fuss, please," Livia begged. He laughed loudly.

"You still don't understand, do you? Why should I make a fuss? I came to wish you joy and happiness. Or—" and now his attitude was combative—"has that son of a gun over there any objections."

He rocked unsteadily and made a tentative step toward Charles, and then he turned back to Livia and grinned.

"So you're going to get married. Well, well, well. Little Livia, the girl I raised from so high." He knelt down and spread his hand an inch from the hard ground. "Livia's getting married. That's a good joke on someone." Now he was angry, and Livia shrank from him. He left her suddenly and went to Charles. She followed apprehensively.

"Bruce!" she pleaded. But he stumbled on without heeding her.

"Hello, Nolan," Charles said.

"Just wanted to congratulate you," Bruce said thickly. "Take good care of Livia. She's a sweet kid."

"I will," Charles said solemnly.

"Well, then, that's all I came to say." Bruce was equally solemn. "Good-bye and good luck."

He walked away unsteadily pushing through the curious throng.

"Come on, Livia—it's getting late." Charles' voice cut through her distress. Her eyes were luminous with tears. She turned to him and without a word entered the plane.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1942.

The only way we can win the war is to be a united people—united in the grim determination that nothing on God's green earth is going to stand between us and victory.—Donald M. Nelson.

Italy Wants Out of the War

MUCH as Italy might like to get out of the war without more serious damage than has already been sustained, the task may not be as easy as it was to get into the war when the Fascist group got the idea that Hitler was near victory and that there was a chance of sharing in the spoils.

Italy is now under Nazi domination to such extent as to make it helpless to act independently and a separate peace move at this time savors suspiciously of Axis strategy designed to ward off a possible invasion of Europe through Italy, which is made vulnerable by Allied North African successes.

Insofar as actual participation in the war is concerned, Italy has at no time been considered a serious threat to the United Nations and the unfortunate Italian people who have been made victims of Mussolini's ambition and Hitler's aggression have been pitied rather than censured.

It stands to reason, however, that no present effort by Italy to shake off responsibility or to escape the actualities of war should be permitted to interfere with Allied stratagem in carrying through an offensive that will eventually knock out Germany's fighting force and cause the downfall of Hitlerism in Europe.

Regrettable as it may be, Italy will probably have to experience more of the horrors of war before it can be restored to its people as an independent nation, freed from Nazi interlopers.

Wartime Restrictions Not Permanent

AS AMERICANS gradually gain experience in being told what they MAY DO and what they MUST NOT DO they are at least becoming firmly convinced that they wouldn't like such a totalitarian form of government as exists in Germany and other Axis-ruled countries.

The fundamentals of individual liberty have become so much a part of everyday living in the United States that there has been obvious inclination on the part of many people to be far from gracious in accepting even mild restrictions necessitated by war—as has been evidenced by resentment shown over sugar, coffee and gasoline rationing, and other interferences with personal freedom of action.

The hoarding instinct, which has appeared in connection with all intimations of prospective shortages, has indicated the extent to which self-interest governs a large number of people, rather than the general interest which is assumed to motivate the citizenship of a nation founded on the principles of equal rights and privileges.

While sugar and coffee shortages have resulted in some individual inconveniences it may be doubted if any actual hardships have been suffered because of restricted supplies. A real test will come, however, when gasoline rationing becomes effective and public transportation facilities are shown to be insufficient to accommodate the added load.

In a polite, but firm way, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, is telling people that they should do no unnecessary traveling on trains or buses, and the same message is being given to motorists by William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator.

It is now estimated that approximately half of the motorists who have secured basic A ration books will apply for books entitling them to more gas, and while many will be able to show legitimate need for the larger quantity it is important to bear in mind that the chief purpose of rationing is to conserve rubber that is badly needed for war purposes and that absolute impartiality should be assured in granting driving privileges in excess of the A limit.

Other restrictions, more drastic than any yet encountered, are not improbable for next year, according to an American magazine article by Harry Hopkins, and it is gratifying to feel that these will be only for wartime application rather than for permanent imposition, as would be the totalitarian policy of regimentation.

Don't Forget To 'Watch Your Step'

THE INJUNCTION, "Watch your step," has both literal and figurative significance, but just now it appears that the warning should be accepted in the literal sense of making sure that your next step will not result in a fall.

This suggestion seems justified by almost daily reports of Mansfield people who are suffering from injuries caused by falls which resulted from the victims "having their mind on something else."

Falls referred to have invariably been inside homes sometimes involving steps or stairways and sometimes being on smooth floors, but at no time extending to the ordinary winter hazards of ice and snow which will come along later.

It is understandable, of course, that under present conditions people are inclined to "have their mind on something else," but this is also a time when everybody should be careful of the next step, before they take it.

Appreciation of Mark Twain

ONCE upon a time, if the question were asked, "Who was America's best beloved author," the answer would probably have been Longfellow. Nowadays the reply would probably be Samuel L. Clemens, much better known as Mark Twain, whose birthday will be celebrated November 30.

Nobody could be more American than Mark Twain. Born in the village of Florida, Mo., in 1835, he became in turn a journeyman printer, a Mississippi river pilot (when he got his pen-name, Mark Twain, from a call used by pilots), a newspaper writer, lecturer and author. He was brought up in what is now a vanished civilization, the Mississippi river and the Far West of eighty years ago, and he has brought it home to us all. While his first reputation was made with the humorous travel book, "Innocents Abroad," he will live especially in books like "Roughing It," "Life on the Mississippi," and above all, "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn."

It seems odd now that, as late as 1906, histories of American literature could be written which confined all mention of Mark Twain to a footnote. Now he is recognized as one of our greatest writers. Popular appreciation did it for him, wiser in this case than the critics. Now both the critic and the man in the street take Mark Twain to their hearts as the best beloved American author.

THE STRAGGLER

Tiny Republic Still Independent

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Andorra now introduces itself into the war picture. It does so as a neutral, but as a neutral that's determined to enforce its rights as such, nevertheless. Furthermore, Herr Hitler has promised to respect 'em—it his pledge is worth anything. Press dispatches brought the news the other day.

Andorra la Vieja means Andorra the Old.

The burg is elderly, for a fact. The Andorran republic was established by Charlemagne, back in the 1200's A. D., and its metropolis was venerable even then. What sticks me is how the wee nation has succeeded in retaining its separate identity ever since. It's a little 17 by 18-mile stretch between France's southern and Spain's northern borders along the Pyrenees, with mountain ranges both ways, and I suppose it wasn't considered worth fighting for.

It isn't like Portugal, on the western Spanish coastal seafront. That at least has a window on the outside world. Andorra is corked up tight. That more than nine folk out of every 100 ever heard of it I have my doubts.

Endured For Centuries.

That it's maintained its status as an independent republic for going on into eight centuries remains as a fact, all the same.

The Andorrans are run by an elected body known as a syndicate, to express it, in English, with a chosen head called a syndic—in effect a president. Following a visit in Spain many years ago, and bound backward toward London through France, I had the curiosity for a stopover in this land of Charlemagne's creation, and a look at its civilization. Rail transportation being lacking, I made the trip in an apology for an automobile. I interviewed the syndic, but what he said to me is immaterial at this late date.

The nub was, though, that those Andorrans were as independent as hogs on ice.

They seem so yet. The Germans, bustling into Vichy France, and getting uncomfortably close to the Andorran border, evoke from the Andorran capital the query, "Aren't you Nazis overdoing matters?"

And the Nazis apparently don't fancy pushing 'em too far.

The Spanish peninsula isn't overly pro-German.

Andorra's so small as to be rather a funny symptom in the southwestern European diagnosis. I mention it as a curiosity rather than that it signifies with its city-block of population.

The peninsula's Spanish, Portuguese and Andorran.

The Spanish are ruled at present by Francisco Franco, a so-called Caudillo, who corresponds to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini, as Fuehrer and Duce.

Fuehrer Hitler still hangs on.

So does Duce Mussolini, though he shows definite signs of weakening.

I think Generalissimo Franco would remain totalitarian if he believed he could get away with it, but he's insisting on neutrality now—getting off the fence onto democracy's side.

Anarchy In Spain?

Majoritatively speaking, Spain's pro-popular government is close to the point of anarchy. It's almost too much so. Italy verges that way. Now we have the Spanish and Italian peninsulas included generally.

Portugal and Andorra are rational little republics.

Heaven knows how they happened to stay that way. Why they preferred to do so is easy enough to guess. But how it happens that the big powers permitted 'em to choose for themselves is a puzzle.

Listen World!

Days for Prayer

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE PRESIDENT has asked us to make Thanksgiving and New Year's day a time for prayer.

This isn't going to be easy or natural for most Americans. We're workers and fighters, not mystics. We've drifted away from religious ritual. We've forgotten how to lean on unseen sources of strength. We've built our power on material things: on the strength of our own hands and the ingenuity of our own brains. And, for a long time, the formula seemed to work. But it isn't working now.

Never has a nation seen such swift mass production. Daily mechanical records are broken. Overnight our youngsters have winged over the globe. It power and pep were enough, we should be riding the crest of the wave. But they're not enough.

There is an emptiness in us, a loneliness and heartache which we've never known before and which nothing heals. Our success is ashes on our lips. We're longing for something we cannot find on any blueprint or in any shipyard or airplane factory.

And the President tells us to pray. But how and for what? We've forgotten. Pattering the bedside prayers we knew as children won't do. There must be something that will go deeper, be more potent. Something that will send us out comforted, stronger to meet whatever comes.

HOW DO A STRONG, SELF-SUFFICIENT PEOPLE PRAY TO A GOD THEY SCARCELY KNOW?

I'm thinking of a tale they tell of Jesus. It happened in a sad hour. His own doom loomed ahead; He could feel the chill and the horror of it on His heart. The crowd thronged about Him, demanding miracles, but He knew, with bitter wisdom, how few of them saw beyond the moment's pain or profit. Disgust and discouragement, they were piercing Him as cruelly as the nails which were to come.

And then a man broke through the mob, his face distorted with his desperate yearning. Panting, he told of his epileptic son of the seizures which had possessed him from birth, of the darkness which lay upon their home in consequence. Even as he spoke the boy lay wallowing and foaming beside him on the earth.

There was a horror which no human wisdom or power could relieve. And yet the father still hoped.

Have compassion on us and help us, he cried to the Christ.

Jesus said unto him—If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.

And straightway the father cried with tears, Lord, I believe, help thou mine unbelief.

And Jesus rebuked the foul spirit which was in the boy and lifted him up and he went forth healed.

"Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief."

Often I think of that cry in these days of blind bewilderment. Faith? Yes, it works miracles. We've seen such miracles in our own experience. But how can one have faith in the face of such hell as fills the world today? How can we believe when greed, corruption and cruelty confront us on every hand? How can we pray when our hearts have lost the way? I know of but one answer; that ancient, honest cry that broke through every barrier between man and God—

"LORD, I BELIEVE; HELP THOU MINE UNBELIEF!"

Pray on Thanksgiving day. Pray on every day. The God who who made us does not demand that we shall understand His vast mysterious plan. He does not ask that we should come with perfect confidence nor power nor ecstasy. He only asks that we shall say, as any little child might say—"I believe; help thou mine unbelief."

And strangely, comfort comes and deep new strength.

Timely Editorial

The Glorious Cattail.

A Chicago scientist announces production from cattail fiber of a fluffy, water-resistant down which can be used as a stuffing for toys, sporting goods, upholstery, life preservers and as padding for tanks and airplanes. A factory for processing the fiber has been set up at Ashippun, Wis.

Thus new glory is added to an ancient and honorable plant. The cattail or bulrush adds grace to wet places as it flutters in the breeze or stands at tall, serene attention. It provides a perch for singing red-winged blackbirds, who, too, like marshy places.

Bulrushes sheltered Moses while his sister arranged for the Pharoah's daughter to befriend the babe. Their long, tough leaves have been used through the ages for weaving matting and chair seats. Until recent years, the tall brown spikes brought joy to every boy's heart by providing torches which, soaked in kerosene, burned with splendor on autumn evenings. —Minneapolis Star Journal.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why We Call It Friday.

Friday's child, runs the old tradition, is loving.

The tradition conforms to lore and legend; for Friday, rooted in the Anglo-Saxon Frigu (goddess of love) plus daeg day, literally means "love day."

Now, Frigu was the wife of Wodan and mother of Thor, after whom Wednesday and Thursday had been called.

To keep Frigu from getting jealous and taking it out on them, the early forebears of some of us decided to play it safe by commemorating a day to her, too.

And so they named the sixth day of the week Frigedaeg; that is, Friday.

Interpreting the War News

Hitler Placed at Disadvantage By Surprise Moves of United Nations

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

RUSSIA'S developing offensive in the Don-Volga area makes it increasingly unlikely that Hitler will be able to draw on his forces there to meet the new peril in southern Europe without exposing himself to the risk of a disastrous defeat.

Hitler's entire war strategy has been upset by events of recent weeks. First Russia's resistance made it impossible for him to reach his winter objectives and dig in while he turned his energy elsewhere.

Now the renewed evidence of Russia's striking power puts him in a spot which may turn out to be much worse than last winter. Russia's strength is obviously not spent, whereas Hitler has lost an enormous amount of men and material in the costly drives from Leningrad and the Caucasus.

The Russian offenesive could hardly have been better timed to coincide with the Allied drive in North Africa. It begins to look as though Hitler will be confined to a delaying action in Tunisia and in western Libya while he revises his strategy and works out some move to offset his reverses.

THE great British-American expedition to North Africa evidently came as a complete surprise to Hitler and caught him unprepared. He had built up a strong defense line of more than 2,000 miles in western Europe from the northern tip of Norway to the Bay of Biscay. He had a line of similar length in the east from the Arctic ocean to the Caucasus.

It seemed to Hitler that he was immune from attack for at least a year and that he would go into the summer of 1943 stronger than this year. Now he has a new line to fortify and defend almost as long as the other two together, stretching along all of southern Europe.

This dispersal of forces puts him at a serious disadvantage. He is already on the defensive in Russia. He also is subject to attack in western Europe and in the south anywhere from southern France to Italy, Greece or elsewhere in the Balkans.

As Hitler himself complained, he does not know where the "lunatic" strategists of the Allies will strike.

Hitler's position in Africa now seems much weaker than that of the Allies. His communication lines are shorter but more vulnerable. The Allies control the sea and are superior in the air. By a great sea-borne expedition they have landed a large army and much heavy equipment.

Hitler has to depend mainly on air transport for his supplies and reinforcements.

ALLIED chances of driving the Axis completely out of North Africa look excellent, although it is likely to take some time. Axis positions in Tunisia are excellent for defense and may be difficult to crack. Rommel's army, still in retreat, is expected to attempt a stand at El Agheila or Tripoli but it still may be only a delaying action.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Those with fingers on this capital's pulse are looking for Sen. Harry Flood Byrd (D-Va) to emerge as one of the big guns of the new congress.

It's difficult to dope the complexion of a congress that will assemble come January, but it's a safe bet that economy in non-war spending will be one of the important issues. Economy is Senator Byrd's favorite dish.

The junior senator from the commonwealth has had administration stalwarts looking for years as if they'd just bitten a quince. When lavish spending was hot stuff politically, Byrd's was one of the few voices raised in the Senate against dishing out the dough with both hands.

HIS latest diatribe against waste and extravagance in government is more than a little embarrassing to a lot of red-faced big shots in Washington. Control and allocation of manpower is one of the important unsolved problems in the capital just now.

The acid-tongued Virginia gentleman pointed out that the government had better clean its own kitchen before telling private industry how to keep house, as far as manpower is concerned.

Backing up his charges with facts and figures, Senator Byrd pointed out that there are almost 3,000,000 men and women now working for the government, exclusive of men in military service. Fully one-third of this U. S. payroll army is engaged in thumb-twiddling that would never be missed if they were fired right now, he says.

BYRD'S claim that the federal services are top-heavy has been backed up recently by frequent letters to Washington newspapers from federal workers. They claim that one of the main causes of workers quitting is failure to provide work enough to keep them interested. Stories that letters are typed and re-typed half a dozen times just to keep personnel occupied are not uncommon.

So when the Virginian argues that 1,000,000 workers could be released from federal work to war industries, it's a matter of considerable concern to the manpower agencies. Their coming campaign for regulation of the labor supply is going to strike an awfully sour note over the country if Byrd develops the fact that the Government is the biggest hoarder and waster of labor in the land.

Those who make a business of doping political trends figure that Byrd's long record as an economy advocate will put him in the saddle when an economy wave really begins to roll in congress.

Modern Airport Results From Pioneering In African Jungles

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CAIRO—America is hewing some splendid pioneering developments out of the jungles and desert of Equatorial Africa in connection with our all-out war effort and a striking example of this is a great airport at which I spent some days en route to Egypt.

This port must be nameless. Actually the existence of the enterprise is no longer a secret from friend or foe, for it has become too important to hide under a bushel.

The port provides unique facilities at a point that affords a gateway for an aerial shortcut from the Atlantic clear through to the Orient.

Less than a year ago this was just another fever spot in the swampy jungles of steaming Africa. Today it is a healthful little community which is so modern it even has electric lights and refrigeration.

Our port has the appearance at first blush of being a huge lake which nature had set down beside the mother Atlantic. Actually it isn't a lake at all but a huge bay which is almost surrounded by land. It is 15 miles long and three miles wide and is so sheltered that it would accommodate a well nigh limitless armada of flying boats. Behind it are facilities for land planes.

Thus you have a perfect base for war or commerce.

Some 20 acres of land have been wrested from the dense jungle, which continually reaches out to reclaim its own. Neighboring morasses have been drained and on the high ground overlooking the port have been erected many comfortable and well-equipped buildings.

The mosquito menace has been reduced to virtually nil within malaria-carrying radius of two miles of the settlement. This has been achieved by drainage, constant spreading of oil on the remaining swamps.

A Farmer's Diary

Indian Summer

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST WEEK we had Indian Summer weather — too warm for comfort. The flies that had crept away for winter buzzed about our open door until we closed the screen. Honeybees gathered on the soft mud at the sunny side of the pond. Fire flies that nobody had seen for four weeks past, lit zigzag lines of light above the swamp. Some lay upon the short cropped grass and glowed their amber rays.

Grass shoots turned pale, tender green and buds of lilac burst their bracts on all the terminal twigs. The witch hazel down by my neighbor's spring flaunted rich golden streamers. It is the season for this shrub to bloom, but late warmth and sunshine added a richer glow. I viewed it from a little rise, against a background of slender branching elms and a woods floor of drifted leaves. This flowering tree appeared to move its tangled head of living gold and shimmer in the quiet air.

After sunrise, one early morning, I heard one lonely meadow lark rise from the dewy field and sing as exuberantly as in early spring. I never before heard that song so late, although I listen carefully each Indian summer season.

Little groups of flies moved up and down in the warm silent air above sheltered banks . . . I counted ten different frogs about the calamus swamp, both night and morning. I doubt not these were males, for their voices struck a deep low bass. Ants busily repaired the outside of their tunneled mounds. I saw a large dark butterfly flit lazily.

As I viewed the level meadow and the gently rising portion of the slope, still dewy wet, I observed a grayish maze of spider webs as delicate as tiny wings of fog. The whole meadow and hill was covered with these perfectly woven threads. I wondered as I gazed, how many spiders, large and small, might peaceably inhabit a single acre of my land.

Yet, in the afternoon, looking against the sun's bright rays, myriads of silken web strands floated by, often with a little spider riding quietly. Just where their journeys ended with the damp calm of evening, I would like to know.

Teeming life within the soil waits impatiently to exercise, with the slightest hint of warmth.

HERE ARE GROUNDS FOR DOUBT OF FDR'S COFFEE EXPERTNESS

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Apparently unmindful of the violent criticism which greeted Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's new-grounds-on-old formula for making rationed coffee go farther, President Roosevelt has endorsed an almost identical procedure, his wife revealed today.

Mrs. Roosevelt, however, washed her own hands of any controversy which may result from her husband's suggestions by saying, at a press conference, that "personally, whether I drink coffee, tea, or hot water, it is all the same to me."

The New York mayor promulgated his coffee stretching formula in a broadcast some weeks ago. He said that after coffee is brewed the grounds should be saved, dried, and used again the next day with addition of a little fresh coffee. He kicked up a considerable storm of comment—most of it unfavorable. A good many chefs, housewives and others asserted that old grounds, in whatever proportion, could produce nothing fit for human consumption.

Despite all that, however, the president—who "thinks he's a coffee expert"—believes the idea is good, Mrs. Roosevelt said. "He says coffee is very satisfactory that way," she added.

Mrs. Roosevelt then made a revelation which many a coffee connoisseur will view as disqualifying the president as an expert—he drinks his half coffee and half hot milk. It's a Roosevelt family habit, she added.

The president drinks this mixture in the morning and "also takes a small cup after lunch or dinner," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

The largest river in New Zealand is only 80 miles long.

THEATERS

Boxing Thriller.

While it only took James J. Corbett less than 63 minutes to knock out John L. Sullivan in the heavyweight championship boxing bout in 1892 it took Errol Flynn four days to re-enact Corbett's classic match for the picture, "Gentleman Jim," showing at the Ohio. Flynn portrays Corbett in the production while Ward Bond plays Sullivan. The film traces Corbett's career from bank clerk to boxing champion and the cast includes Alexis Smith, Alan Hale, John Loder and William Frawley.

Murder Mystery.

"The Glass Key," Dashiell Hammett murder mystery, concludes its showing at the Madison today. Brian Donlevy and Alan Ladd head the cast as a shady political boss and his right-hand-man while Veronica Lake, Bonita Granville and Joseph Calleia top the supporting cast. Complications develop when Donlevy falls in love with Veronica Lake whose father is running for mayor on the reform ticket and become further involved when the girl's brother is found murdered. Damon Runyon's story, "The Big Street," with Lucille Ball and Henry Fonda is the second feature.

Authentic Film.

"Moscow Strikes Back," the authentic film story of what happened in Russia last winter, continues at the Park today. Filmed by official Soviet cameraman the picture shows the fighting machine of the Red Army in combat against the enemy. Edward G. Robinson acts as narrator. Lupe Velez and Leon Errol in "Mexican Spitfire Sees a Ghost," is the second attraction.

Crime Drama.

The desperate struggle of a paroled convict to keep out of trouble is depicted in "Escape From Crime," the Ritz attraction today and Wednesday. Richard Travis and Julie Bishop are co-featured and the cast includes Frank Wilcox and Rex Williams. The parolee happens to be on the scene of a crime with a camera and through his photographs is able to convince the law of his innocence. Harry Langdon in "House of Errors," a newspaper comedy is the co-feature.

VICTORIAN CLUB HEARS ABOUT MUSIC OF OHIO

Miss Florence MacDonald Traces Development of Music From Indian Days to Present Time; Names Outstanding Musicians.

MUSIC and Musicians of Ohio" was the title of an interesting talk given by Miss Florence MacDonald following the Victorian club luncheon at the Women's Club at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. W. A. Harbeson. Red carnations formed the attractive table decorations.

Miss MacDonald traced the development of Ohio music from the early Indian folk songs about wild life through to the current "swing" music Before Ohio became a state, there were military bands in Cincinnati and Marietta. Pioneers who came here from the East organized the first choirs and choral societies. Programs of fine music were presented by traveling musicians.

Temperance songs originated in Ohio, then came the Civil war songs. In discussing Ohio's standing in music circles today, Miss MacDonald stated that the Ohio Music Teachers' association is rated second best in the United States, the Texas association being first This state was among the first to introduce music in the schools The Cleveland and Cincinnati symphony orchestras are among the few in the country that have "homes."

Outstanding among Ohio musicians are Marv Eddy of Perrysville, national authority on hymns and a collector of old hymnals, Mrs Talbot of Cleveland patron of the Westminster choir. Margaret Speaks of Columbus, Helen Jepson Metropolitan Opera singer from Columbus, and Stephen Collins Foster, whose folk songs have always been exceedingly popular

Miss MacDonald closed the program with songs of several Ohio composers' "To You" by Oley Speaks, "Blue Are Her Eyes" by Winter Watts, "The Star" by James Rogers, and a song by Kirk Ridge, who formerly lived in this vicinity and is now teaching at Syracuse university. Final number on the program was one of Miss MacDonald's own compositions

On Dec 14 there will be a joint meeting of the Victorian and Round Table clubs at the Women's Club Mrs W. T Tappan and Mrs John W Graham will be hostesses for the 1 o'clock luncheon The program will be arranged by Mrs D W Peppard and Mrs A L. Price

Home Apparel Made Chic And Warm

By SUSAN BARDEN

THOUGH the cold wind howls and the thermostat is set at a patriotic 65 degrees, we'll have little reason to fear chills and draughts this season, for designers have provided us with a new charming heating system all our own.

Mixing comfort and chic with a deft hand, they have produced a whole new collection of lovely warm-as-toast lounging robes and nightwear that win elegance and glamor through the use of luxurious fabrics, flatteringly styled

Designed to grace the drawing room as well as the boudoir are the striking covered-up hostess pajamas and house coat done in warm, crush-resistent rayon velvets, soft draping rayon crepes or sleek rayon satins, with texture accenting formal trimming detail such as metallic and beaded embroidery, sleek fur bandings, stunning applique work and smart edgings of contrasting fabric

Jackets Usually Fitted.

Lounging pajama jackets are generally fitted this season, and trousers are cut on straighter lines, giving the effect of a slim-hanging skirt. Hostess gowns follow the new slender silhouette with button-front or side drape closings, well-fitted waistlines and graceful gently flared skirts.

Both deep glowing tones and warm bright shades are popular in leisure wear styles, with much use of both color and fabric contrast in the more formal types.

The three models in the above photographs are both smart and cosy.

Bed-Jacket, Nightgown Matched.

The luxurious quilted bed-jacket, left, is made of fine floral printed spun rayon challis, and is worn over a dainty warm nightgown which trims matching fabric with flattering lace ruffles at the high neck and sleeves

Another charming floral design, shown right, is printed on palest pink rayon crepe to make the warm quilted wrap-around lounging robe.

Two tones of firm rayon crepe are strikingly combined in the warm hostess pajamas, which repeat the black note of the trousers in gold embroidered applique at the front of the dusty rose jacket.

Stockings In New Fall Shades Can Be Poured on

No one can say the American woman has not sacrificed to win the war

First it was simplified dresses — then rubberless corsets. And now it's no stockings. That's right —no stockings

Silk, of course, is not available for anything so unnecessary, so far as the war effort is concerned, as a covering for milady's legs. Pure silk and silk-woven fabrics are urgently needed for parachutes, summer uniforms, underwear and a thousand and one uses in army life Some is even used in the making of certain types of tires Indeed the government thinks so much of this precious fabric that a recent order of the War Production Board has frozen all used silk hosiery in the hands of dealers

Materials Diverted.

Other materials which would normally be employed as a suitable substitute for hose are rapidly being drafted for more important uses in the cause of the United Nations Stockings made of these materials will appear for some time, but in ever decreasing volume, until by the end of the year, experts advise, the American women will find them practically unavailable.

Ankle length socks will continue to sell for a while longer, but no assurance of a protracted stay is given by manufacturers Slacks and overalls will hide a multitude of runs and snags if you care to stretch the present stocking supply beyond normal endurance But you can't wear the pants all the time

Not to be stumped by material shortages, women have begun to purchase their hose in a bottle. Pouring yourself a pair of stockings is not new, having been popular for years among theatrical folk and more recently in England.

No More "Runs."

Liquid stockings are applied with a piece of cotton, soft cloth or with the fingers. They will not streak, run or rub off. Warm water and soap, however, removes the lotion in a jiffy. Proper application results in a tanned, velvet covering that makes for as attractive an appearance as the sheerest of hose

Liquid stockings will serve milady as faithfully and well for fall as for summer Several popular shades which will fit into the pattern of fall colors are now available to match the new season's ensemble Fashion decrees little change in the color of stockings for fall wear but you may be sure that whatever shades are most popular, you'll find them in a duraglas bottle

Pour yourself a pair of stockings and save — material and money.

CLOTHESPINS

Dirty clothespins leave their mark on otherwise clean clothes, and once "in," the dirt is difficult to remove Tub pins in warm, soapy water once a month, dry them in the sun and store them in a spotlessly clean bag from washday to washday They deserve good care especially now that they're gone for the duration.

It's Time to Get Out and Hoof It Now

By MME QUI VIVE

Don't you love this season of the year? Does the nice, crisp air invite you to put on your seven league boots and get out and march? Let us hope so. If you are the boss of the domestic works, you can manage it; the family cherubs must be dragged out, anyway. If you're a career girl you'll have to spare time on Sundays or the afternoon off to cavort in outdoor spaces. It will be better for your complexion than social activities. Breathe in the fresh air and make your lungs laugh Your blood streams will rush around, carrying pretty blushes to your cheeks. Vitality is something we have to have during these mad times. The best place to find it is out of doors.

It was meant that the lungs should be washed with fresh air, down to the last cell Many women are shallow breathers; they are the ones who must resort to the rouge pot. The girl who is highly energized will find pleasure in sniffing in quantities of air. It keeps her on her toes, makes her a more efficient worker. It is an appetite creator. Little Pale Face who has no interest in food should put that thought in her cigarette holder and smoke it. She is undernourished and a poorly nourished body is subjected to beauty grievances of one kind or another.

Note the house dog when he goes bounding out of the door. He takes deep sniffs of air, seems to enjoy it. Follow his example.

By deep breathing is meant a rhythmical lifting and descending of the diaphragm, accomplished slowly and regularly. Stale air should be fully expelled; it is best to do this through the lips Inhale through the nostrils Complete air-washing of the lungs compresses the liver, stomach and intestinal tract, thereby toning the muscles of the internal organs. It's a simple and successful method for reducing the waistline that has expanded beyond normal measurements and graceful contour.

Insomnia victims find slow, regular breathing a help in coaxing the sand man to come along. Try it some time when you're as tired as an old dray horse and your nerves are rioting

Here is an exercise that one can do before taking the morning bath:

Stand erect, hands down at the sides Take a deep inhalation, and, while doing it, lift the hands slowly above the head, expanding the chest to the limit Hold the breath while you count ten, still keeping the hands lifted Expel the air as the hands are slowly lowered The arms should be stretched during these movements, fingers and thumbs out spread

LESS WASTE

It's easier to measure honey, corn syrup and molasses if you use a moist or greased cup. And with recipes requiring shortening there is less waste if you measure the shortening first, then the sugar substitute.

Children Are Problem When Mother Works

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

The other day I spoke before groups of teachers, parents and civic leaders in an industrial city of nearly 70,000 people. Over one-third of the mothers of that city work This is not a guess but a fact ascertained by a house to house canvass In some other cities, or sections of cities, the percentage of mothers working outside their homes is much larger. Just consider what all this means to children of these mothers.

Many wives who have no children, some indeed who have grown children of their own, are volunteering to care for neighbor children of working mothers Some others are attracting these children to their homes after school and on Saturday. Some high school girls are volunteering their services, too. Also some churches and civic clubs are setting up volunteer centers to protect these neighbor children Besides, there are a few nursery schools. Yet all these efforts are but a drop in the bucket.

Job for Schools.

Not just the babies and tots, but also children of school age, even in the high school, need protection. The public schools may have to take over this service and be open from about 7 a m to 7 p m. together with some evening and week-end sessions

We hardly can hope to have our teachers take over this added service. They are already overworked. As they give more hours they will prove less efficient and all school children will suffer the consequence. Besides, there is a shortage of teachers now.

A Way Out.

As a compromise, the school might supervise this larger program and train the children in high school and the upper grades to help with the younger children, on the playground in the gymnasium and other places at school, after the regular school day Let the school also provide training courses for adult volunteers to learn to care for children at school and home after school hours.

Some retired teachers might be glad to volunteer in this service in some instances teaching part of the day to relieve a regular teacher for more specialized service at other hours, or some of these might participate directly in this after and before school program There may come a time when many adults will be drafted to give this service

Q. At what age should an allowance begin?

A. No one can say It depends on how far the child has developed in taking responsibility. A reasonable goal for the average child is probably at the age of eight or nine for an allowance to include more than mere pocket money. My special bulletin on allowances may be had without cost to you by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSIDER ALL ENTRIES

Successful play of difficult hands usually requires close attention to the factor of entries in one way or another No Trump contracts especially call upon the declarer to keep a close watch over the entries from one of his two holdings to the other, and at the same time consider the question of the opponents' entries Only by keeping both of these elements in mind can maximum results be obtained on a large percentage of all deals.

That assortment was bid nine different ways at nine different duplicate tables In most cases East took a shellacking at too many spades At one West took a hiding in too many diamonds. Two tables only produced contracts of 3-No Trumps by North, but the playing results at those tables were different, though both Easts led the spade J, won by the Q

One North tried the cut and dried method of starting out after dummy's long suit, by finessing the diamond 10 to the Q West returned the heart 10, the Q winning and the spade K knocking out the A The diamond A, K and J were scored, then the heart J North then realized that his careless play left him no alternative but to lead a diamond into West's two cards he had set up or a club toward the honors there. He did the latter, and West set him with the club A and two diamonds.

The other North, after winning with the spade Q decided to use the diamond honors for two entries to dummy. First he led a heart to the second trick, and when East ducked, the J won. On the club 5, West put his 10, the K winning. The diamond K was an entry to lead clubs again, the A coming in and West returning the heart 10. North used his A, led to the diamond A and took the marked finesse of the club 9, then the club Q When West showed out now on the spade A, he had East counted for originally seven spades, six hearts, no diamonds and one club, so he was marked as still having one spade and two hearts. North then put East in with the spade K, and that poor worthy had to lead from the heart Q-8 into the K-9, giving North the last two tricks and a total of 11.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My mental alarm clock went off with a disturbing whir at Georges' query.

According to his own story, he was a hunted man who had come to me on a secret important mission I had expected an enthralling revelation of danger and mystery, also some expression of the concern for Olina which he had voiced in the restaurant.

But instead queerly enough, he asked not "Is Mary safe?" or "Is Mary well? "but "Is Mary happy?," and in a tone which betrayed absorbing interest in the emotions of Dicky's lovely niece, at whose feet he once had laid his heart.

Feeling that I ought not to approve either the query or its implication, I was nevertheless conscious of a treacherous sympathy with this romantic royal fugitive whose courtship of Mary, during the months that Princess Olina was a runaway and Georges himself an emissary sent in search of her, had provided the farmhouse family with so much excitement.

But the thought of Noel and Olina steeled me and crushed any sympathy for what I surmised was the reason for his surprising question.

"Happy? Mary?" I repeated, as if hardly realizing what he had asked. "Why, of course, she's very happy. Why shouldn't she be?"

"That's just the question I've been asking myself," he said. "She has every reason to be—beauty, fame, artistic success, a devoted husband. I know Noel must be that—"

"He is," I said quickly, as he paused

"And yet," he went on, "I've been wondering. There's something about her. I used to think I knew her every mood and tense, you know—"

His smile was boyishly tender, but I was staring at him in amazement.

"You seen and talked to Mary!" I ejaculated. "Where? When? She has said nothing to me"

"Not talked to her," he said quickly. "But I saw her, several nights at the restaurant, beside the one that you were there. I also saw her at the theater, and despite your assurance, I am afraid that she is not completely happy"

"Who is?" I said dryly, but he switched to another abrupt question

"Does Mary go out often with that—that impossible bounder, I think you would call him over here—who is her leading man?"

What is this, I thought in bewilderment, a catechism on Mary's conduct? If so, his voice held undertones which distinctly spelled jealousy.

I swiftly recalled how Georges, sent to search for Olina, had fallen headlong in love with Mary's winsome loveliness, and how later I had learned that Olina and Georges since childhood had been destined for each other by their respective royal families.

Olina's true feeling about the affair I never had been able to determine, but when Georges showed how deeply Mary attracted him, Olina in high-handed fashion annexed Noel, although I knew that Noel never really wavered in his love for Mary. But for a time the "international romantic quartet," as Dicky called them, all seemed idyllically happy

Georges' reminding slight cough brought me back from my reverie, and I countered his question with another, solely to gain delay.

"Why do you refer to Stephen Redfield as an impossible bounder?" I asked. "Do you know anything about him?"

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, November 25.

Under the baleful menace of conflicting and adverse portents ruling this day, it might be as well to relax or take extra time off for making plans and decisions as to the advancing holiday, set aside for gratitude and giving thanks Even in this there may be disturbance, loss, grief, shattered programs or disappointments, although all may not be a total loss of enjoyment and profit if a moderate, even and benign course of action be pursued. There might even be a sudden romance or other surprising happy adventure.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by a year calling for the utmost precaution, sane judgment and considerate management if sudden, unforeseen, and disintegrating circumstances, with grief, disappointment, uprooting and unwelcome changes, are not to be endured If controlled balance, fortitude and keen analysis of trying situations be paramount there might be some equally surprising benefits and enjoyments to be reaped from the confusion and adversity. Quick grasp of opportunities, managed with innovation or originality may carry surprising results In the mental or emotional life also there are happy prospects

Roger Pence Arraigned Today In Crawford County Court After Innocent Plea.

BUCYRUS—Hearing was scheduled to be held in common pleas court before Judge C. U. Ahl today in the case of the State of Ohio against Roger Pence, indicted by the county grand jury last week for grand larceny.

Pence pleaded innocent to the charge Saturday and was placed under $1,000 bond.

The defendant is charged with the theft of a number of bicycles.

Also placed under bond in common pleas court Saturday was Charles Brooks charged with assault and battery. His bond was set at $100 and his hearing set for Dec. 15 after he entered a not guilty plea.

Charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol Virgil Mesnard of Upper Sandusky, was fined $100 and costs in Mayor William F. Whiteamire's court Saturday. He was arrested on North Sandusky avenue, Friday night.

Bucyrus police department is conducting an investigation to determine the identity of the hit skip motorist who struck W. H. Ruth, 66, farmer living east of Bucyrus, as he attempted to cross Sandusky avenue at the square Saturday night.

Ruth was thrown to the pavement and received severe bruises and abrasions. He was treated at a physicians office and removed to his home.

An automobile answering the description of the one that struck Ruth and failed to stop, is being held by police and several men were questioned in connection with the accident Monday.

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.
